Sunny sailing

IT MAY officially still be spring, but don't tell that to the beachgoers, surfers and board sailors as a heat wave hit the Monterey Peninsula in the past week, pushing temperatures into the high 70s in Carmel and driving people to don shorts

Against water allocation

Settlement reached in Carmel's water lawsuit

By NANCY HILLS

THE WATER Wars may be in for a respite. A temporary one at least.

Both the Carmel City Council and Monterey Peninsula Water Management District have agreed to terms of a settlement worked out by Monterey Superior Court Judge Richard Silver. The city of Carmel had filed a lawsuit against the district's water allocation system.

Though some changes in wording of the agreement have been requested by Carmel and not yet reviewed by the water board, both parties approved the basics of the agreement in separate closed sessions.

If accepted by the district board, the agreement would settle the lawsuit filed by Carmel last November against the allocation system.

Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood said the wording changes have nothing to do with the terms of the agreement.

Those terms include Carmel loaning money to the district to help pay for an environmental impact report on the allocation system, participation in a conservation program and 300 acre feet set aside for the city and any other district jurisdiction to "borrow" if it goes over its allocation.

Carmel had sued the district after it exceeded its annual water allotment and the city imposed a moratorium on construction that would increase water consumption.

The city claimed that the allocation system involved the water management district in illegal land use planning, unfairly withheld water from a member jurisdiction and should have been subject to an EIR when it was imposed.

The allocation, set in 1981, divides the use of the peninsula's total water supply between the six cities and portions of Monterey County within its boundaries.

Each jurisdiction's allotment is based on its 1979 water consumption and projected need for future growth. A total of 18,600 acre feet was divided among the jurisdictions for their current and future use. (1 acre foot equals 325,851 gallons.)

Another 1,400 acre feet was set aside for districtwide unmetered use, which left another 2,000 acre feet untouched as a drought reserve.

The total water supply the district has used as a basis for its calculations is 22,000 acre feet, of which 20,000 acre feet is for general consumption.

If a jurisdiction exceeds its allotment, the water management district could place a moratorium on water meters in that area.

Central to the dispute between the district and Carmel has been whether the water board would dip into its drought reserve to add 100 acre feet to the city's 1,030.8 acre feet allocation.

The district has maintained it would not increase the peninsula's vulnerability to drought by using the reserve and felt that if Carmel was granted additional water, all the jurisdictions would ask for more.

Carmel has questioned whether the total amount of water the district allocates is correct in the first place.

THOUGH THE specifics of the agreement had not officially been released by press time, according to information received by The Carmel Pine Cone the terms include:

- The jurisdictions within the district would participate in a water conservation program.

A districtwide program is currently under review by the water board. The district projects that it could reduce consumption on the peninsula by 1,000 acre feet.

That would reduce Carmel's consumption as well as other jurisdictions', bringing it well under its allocation.

Carmel already has an urgency water conservation ordinance in place and has reduced its consumption by about 15 acre feet since last year. The city council reviewed a permanent ordinance Tuesday, May 5 (see related story, this issue).

- Carmel will loan the district money to hire an outside consultant to conduct an EIR on the allocation. Estimates, from bids the district has received, put the cost for a consultant at about $50,000.

The EIR would be completed by Oct. 1, 1987. After the EIR is completed, the water supply may be reallocated.

The district would pay $25,000 and Carmel lend the balance of the amount until July 1, 1988.

Carmel and the other jurisdictions have requested the EIR to determine if the total allocation could be increased or should be decreased.

The district has agreed to an EIR. However, because of a sewer moratorium, has run short of funds to pay an outside consultant; all the district cities objected to the report being done by district staff.

Also, the district has stated that the EIR would have to be done during off hours and would take much longer to complete.

The EIR could indicate that the allocations should be less, which would reduce Carmel's as well as other cities' water allotment. It

Building opportunities

Dear Editor:

If Shirley Haile (Letters to the Editor, April 16) wishes to preserve the space above all existing single-story structures, she could purchase these single-story houses and thereby preserve that space herself rather than take away the right of single-story owners to change and improve their own property.

Carmel lots are very small and two stories make good sense in many cases. There are many two-story houses in Carmel. Everyone should have the right to build according to their needs and have the same building opportunities as the surrounding properties.

Mission of mercy

Dear Editor:

I have a fantasy: Somehow I am able to call a meeting of all the mountain lions in California. I explain to them how three "humans" have decreed that 190 of them will be killed beginning in October by other "humans" known as hunters and sportsmen. I tell them that the purpose of the kill is so that the brave macho hunter can hang your head on the wall.

We will try to determine the places where the hunters enter the lions' habitats. Then I will ask for volunteers who are willing to risk their lives. Their mission will be to lie in wait for the hunter and make a kill before the hunter has a chance to use his gun.

Six-gun solution?

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to Chuck August for organizing the RC Car Races at the Forest Hill Park. The kids are gaining knowledge regarding mechanics, electronics, and people.

The city, six-gun in hand, and a few lethargic neighbors of the park are going to shut it down.

I suppose it's better the kids sit home and watch TV with some new drugs.

How low can man sink?

Dear Editor:

Sometimes the greed and cruelty of man is unbelievable. The latest scam concerns nice people who will insure their horses for as much as $1 million, then slip a plastic bag over the animal's head and tie it down, leaving the animal to suffocate. Another noble gesture is to stuff ping-pong balls up the horse's nostrils and leave the animal to die an agonizing death. I heard an insurance detective describe these activities.

Now the hunting fraternity, or the unsportsmanlike section of it, wants to declare open season on mountain lions. They claim the animals "kill too many deer," while a single poaching ring in Virginia illegally kills from 300 to 500 deer in a year for profit, while a lion kills to eat.

I think the state should employ a professional hunter who could eliminate a lion when that animal is preying on someone's cattle. Worked fine years ago.

The elephant and the rhino are being slaughtered merely for the tusks, which are prized as medicine and aphrodisiacs. The growing Asian community in America is a profitable market for illegal wildlife products to be used in the same way. The parts of animals such as the bear, are eagerly sought by these people and our home-grown American poachers employ radio to hone in on hibernating bears fitted with appliances attached by researchers. As the man said: "It's like killing a baby in it's crib."

How low can a human being sink?

Helping people

Dear Editor:

For more than 100 years, without a lot of fanfare and publicity, the Salvation Army Adult Rehabilitation Center located in San Jose, but serving a three-county area, has offered help to men who have lost family, friends, and finances because of alcoholism and/or drug addiction.

Our Rehabilitation Center serves a large geographical area with referrals made by clergy, doctors, detox centers, churches etc. None of our clients are able to pay for their care. The Salvation Army assumes full responsibility for food, shelter, clothing and treatment for 90 clients who live in our residence. This very costly program is funded in total through revenue received from sales in Salvation Army Thrift Stores. The only request that The Salvation Army Adult Rehabilitation Center makes from any community is that they give us their usable household items that they no longer need or want.

Without the telephone calls every day that bring a Salvation Army truck to area homes and businesses, our work with alcoholics and drug users, who so desperately need our help, would not be possible.

I want to thank the caring people who have contributed to us. Also, to remind all of your readers that we need their help every day if we are going to reach out to the hurting people who need our help.

Misleading statistics

Dear Editor:

Thank you very much for the article on the modern midwife, published in the April 16 issue of the Carmel Pine Cone. I'm sure my colleagues would agree that most of the information presented was quite enlightening to the general public. Unfortunately, however, some of the statistics stated were in error and misleading.

The article stated that the "infant" mortality rate for obstetricians is 32/1,000 births and that the "infant" mortality rate for nurse midwives is 10/1,000 births. Three problems exist with these numbers.

First of all, "infant" mortality rate pertains to the baby after its birth and is not a means for evaluating obstetrical care. The current perinatal mortality rate (from 500 grams to 28 days post birth) for all births in the United States is actually 17.7/1,000 live births, as identified in Williams' textbook on obstetrics. This represents a drop in deaths over the past 25 years of nearly 50 percent - which represents a tremendous improvement in perinatal care.

Secondly, no source was given for the statistics presented in the article. If one assumes those numbers are accurate, the implication of the article was that if a woman wants the best chance of a healthy baby, she should seek the services of a nurse midwife and not that of the obstetrician. This is a dangerous and faulty assumption.

Nurse midwives and general practitioners provide health care for healthy women during pregnancy. If a problem develops, the patient is transferred to the care of the more highly qualified person - the obstetrician. Neither the nurse midwife nor the general practitioner can provide good obstetrical care without having the obstetrician available for such complications. To do so without sufficient backup places both mother and fetus in jeopardy.

This leads to the third point. Again, assuming the statistics are correct, and I doubt this, the perinatal mortality rate for the obstetrician must be higher than that of the nurse midwife because the obstetrician is not only caring for low and high risk obstetrical clients, but they are providing care for women transferred to them by nurse midwives and general practitioners when complications arise.

The obstetrician is where the buck stops. We all turn to them when the situation warrants a more highly qualified person. As a result of caring for more complicated patients, the perinatal mortality logically will be higher. They cannot be faulted for this.

My final correction of the numbers presented pertains to the cesarean section rate of 33 percent at Community Hospital as stated by Carol Erickson. The actual statistics provided by Debbie Gill, manager of Labor and Delivery at CHOMP is that the primary cesarean section rate (women with their first cesarean) during 1986 was 15 percent and the repeat cesarean section rate was 11 percent. The number of repeat cesarean sections is dropping now that vaginal births after cesarean section are being conducted.

Finally, I would like to emphasize that nurse midwives provide care for low-risk, healthy women during their childbearing years by offering women an alternative in birthing. This is complemented by working in consultation and collaboration with physicians.

Non-vocal majority

Dear Editor:

It appears the vocal minority, who were soundly defeated and thrown out of office in Carmel's most recent election, are not giving up. The arrogance of the previous administration, especially as it was applied to the general plan, was one of the major reasons for their poor showing in that election. Let us (the non-vocal majority) not fail our elected officials (Eastwood, Fischer and Laiolo); give them the support they need to rid us of these people for good.

Save special beauty

Dear Editor:

Builders and developers, with an eye on the still relatively rural Carmel Valley, hotel chains, anxious to add the name of Carmel to their list of locations, and property owners along Highway 1 south of Ocean, who grow their vegetables on the state's right-of-way, all are longing for a freeway through the Hatton Canyon. There must be a silent majority out there, that believes this area too special and beautiful to succumb to common "progress." Do you realize that:

1. The main turn-off into Carmel will no longer be Ocean Avenue but Carpenter Street? Can you imagine all these cars pouring through the winding crooked streets?

2. We'll have those cement overpasses at the mouth of the valley to make our visitors from LA and San Jose feel at home?

3. In a few years, after rampant development in the valley, we'll be crawling through the carbon monoxide hanging between the walls of Hatton Canyon?

4. We won't stop there, but will also have that freeway through the length of the valley and possibly widening of the coast road?

Please read Harold Gilliam's article from the San Francisco Chronicle, reprinted in the Pine Cone of April 9 (page 12) and send your contribution to the Save Hatton Canyon Fund. Ask for your extra copy at Box 2971, Carmel, Ca. 93921.

And don't let people tell you that we have to make room for more and more people, that we cannot close the doors. We have to save at least some of the special beauty that makes this place different from anywhere else!

Tide of politics

Dear Editor:

When I first read of Judge (Richard) Silver's stringent inquiry of Senior Deputy County Counsel J.R. Ramos on the Carmel Valley Master Plan in March, I was very, very cheered. "I don't know who this man is but I sure do admire his salt," I thought at the time. But in reading the newspaper article on his decision to allow the present plan, it seems Judge Silver bowed to the enormous pressure to let the building get on.

Now I feel very disappointed.

In his acceptance of "promises" from the county supervisors against urban sprawl in the implementation of the plan, I believe Judge Silver has seriously erred. Because as he himself pointed out, according to the newspaper article, it is the "present" county supervisors who have committed themselves to preserving the rural character of Carmel Valley. The Carmel Valley Master Plan stretches for 20 years into the future though.

The tides of politics do not make commitments.

Something else that bothers me is that if the county has made a plan allowing development to such a great degree that a sewage system, a dam, another freeway (Hatton Canyon), and widening of Carmel Valley Road are necessary, have they committed Carmel Valley to looking rural (viewshed, scenic) or being rural? Isn't the door still open for urbanization? Clever? Caving in?

Does the intense gaze of greed win only because it does not go away?

I sincerely hope that Judge Silver's decision is appealed. I truly to admire the work that Alexander Henson and Richard Rosenthal, the lawyers in this case, have done so far.

If you are reading, please, please continue.

Clarification

ON THE front page of the April 23 issue of the Carmel Pine Cone was a photograph dramatizing the plight of friends of teenage suicide victims.

The photograph was a posed "photo illustration" meant only to depict the pain and frustration of the victim's loved ones. Because of a mix-up in communications the young woman's name was used in error. We sincerely regret any distress or embarrassment publishing the photo may have caused the young woman, her family and friends.

Leidigs' second-story appeal denied by council

By DAVID LELAND

THE CARMEL City council wouldn't budge an inch Tuesday as it unanimously upheld a Carmel Planning Commission decision limiting the amount of space the Leidigs can use for second-story apartments at their Sixth Avenue and San Carlos Street property.

In his presentation of an appeal of the planning commission's decision, Ted Leidig attempted to sway the council by pointing to the Goold Building directly across the street, which is in the process of construction of apartments on the second story.

The appeal filed by the Leidigs states "The planning commission erred in computing allowable floor area/lot coverage with respect to second-floor residential addition and applied calculations inconsistently to this property as compared to an identical parcel across the street (the Goold Building)."

Ted Leidig walked the council through a 25-minute, complicated breakdown of the figures used to compute the "injustice" meted out to his brother and himself.

But according to staff planner Brian Roseth, the entire Goold property already had two stories when it was granted a building application by the planning commission.

The council also seemed more concerned with the eventual prospect of a built-up commercial area than with the possible wrongdoings inflicted upon the Leidigs.

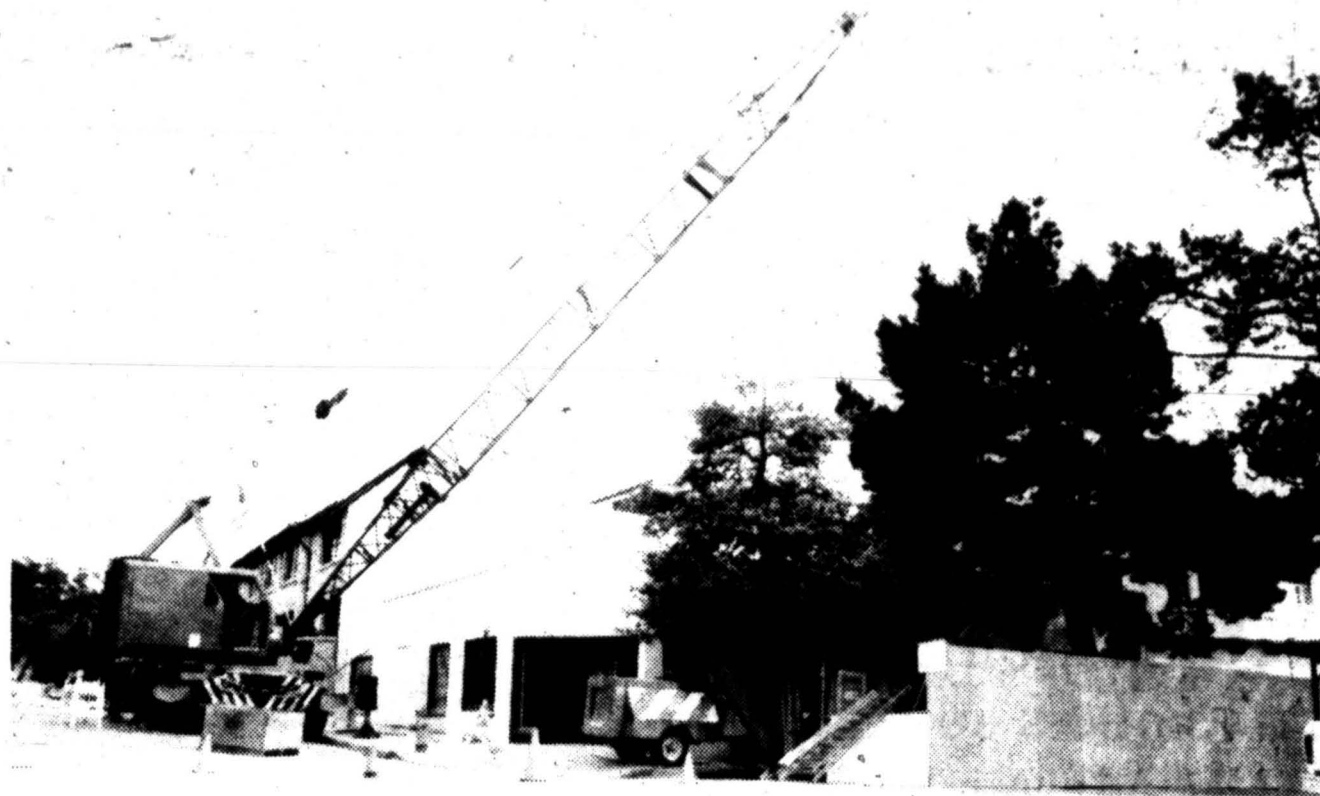

"We could have a downtown area of second-story buildings," said Councilman Bob Fischer. "And (then) we'll be driving through tunnels instead of trees."

The Leidigs were requesting an increase of about 1,500 square feet, to provide for a maximum of six apartments, which they said would put them on par with the Goold Building and would not hurt the esthetics of the area.

But this prompted resident Brian Livingston to say, "If Mr. Leidig is so concerned with the village character in Carmel, I don't see why he wants to add a second story at all."

Indeed, while none of the councilmembers would directly fault the planning commission for granting a building permit for the Goold Building construction, it appeared that all regretted that decision.

"If there were errors made in the Goold

RECONSTRUCTION OF the Goold Building on San Carlos Street to accommodate second-story apartments became a source of controversy after developer Ted Leidig claimed the city was being unfair in turning down a request to expand his second-story apartment project across the street. (Mac McDonald photo.)

project, the time to argue them would have been at the planning commission," said Roseth, referring to the Leidigs' stance.

Agreeing with Roseth was Fischer: "I think it was a long, difficult problem for the planning commission. I see no reason the Goold decision is a precedent for the whole city."

And finally, Livingston told the council, "It seems to be this is a matter of perpetuating mistakes. We're setting a dangerous precedent."

In an effort to avoid any further scrambling for second stories (there are currently several applications awaiting approval) the council next month will hear an ordinance proposing a moratorium on second stories in the commercial district.

IN OTHER action the council:

- Postponed for six months any action on the Flanders Mansion until the forestry and recreation commissions can make recommendations on what to do with the property.

The council had before it a ruling by the planning commission stating that the city could not sell the Flanders property as surplus because the city's general plan forbids the selling of land deemed "open space."

The council had ruled last December that it wanted to sell the land to finance the new library annex.

By deferring the matter for six months, the council did not necessarily agree with the planning commission's decision, but merely wants to know what can be done with the mansion, which currently serves as an art school and private residence.

It is estimated that it would take $500,000 to renovate the building and bring it up to current codes, and it is not clear that that would be financially feasible.

"I still think we should either find a use for it or flatten it," said Mayor Clint Eastwood.

- The council also barely approved going ahead with $200,000 grant from the state Coastal Conservancy to help finance Phase II of the Carmel Beach Restoration Project.

In doing so, the council changed one paragraph of the contract which had councilmembers fearing they might end up with beach activities that they didn't bargain for, like volleyball courts.

With this in mind, the council amended the words "recreation uses" to read "recreation uses complying with the city's general plan."

But it appeared for a while that the council, at the insistence of Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo, would decline any outside donations for the project and would fund it entirely out of city coffers.

But upon further examination, it was found that if the city were to come up with the additional $200,000 from its budget, other municipal projects would likely have to be put on hold, unless the money could be raised elsewhere.

"We'd be biting off our nose to spite our face if we turned down $200,000 in funding," said Councilman Bob Evans, who at one time had opposed outside funding.

But Laiolo, who has opposed a beach walkway from the beginning, stuck to her guns and remained the only councilmember not favoring going ahead with the joint venture with the conservancy.

• The city accepted the proposed changes at Toots Lagoon restaurant, which will provide public restrooms in exchange for being able to build a door which opens onto Piccadilly Park.

The doors will be open during the park hours but later will function only as emergency fire exit doors. They will be equipped with an alarm which will sound upon opening.

The council approved the changes 4-1, with Councilman James Wright dissenting.

• Moved forward with action involving the purchase of the Crocker Bank building from Wells Fargo Bank, which will house the Harrison Memorial Library Annex.

According to Doug Schmitz, city administrator, Wells Fargo has accepted the city's five-year lease agreement terms.

With this in mind, the council approved either Schmitz or Eastwood to negotiate with the bank.

• In other library annex business the council appropriated funds from the city hostelry tax and in-lieu parking fund for a new Debt Service account for the acquisition.

The city will also, upon signing of the lease, begin using the parking lot at the bank as a municipal parking lot. With 21 spaces designated for one-hour time periods.

Water ordinance approved, some building may proceed

By DAVID LELAND

WITH A few minor changes from the initial draft, the Carmel City Council approved a new water ordinance Tuesday which will release several projects which have been sitting in limbo.

But the ordinance, according to city staff planner Brian Roseth, is mainly aimed at releasing vacant lots of record for building.

This he said will be attained by the city's water conservation efforts which will build up a reserve.

Under the new ordinance, projects filed with city planners before March 13 will be given the go-ahead. Most other construction will be put on hold until the water reserves are bolstered.

The exact number and names of all projects affected by the new ordinance will be read to the council at its next meeting, Roseth said.

Some building could begin as early as July, Roseth said, when the water reserves reach 2 percent. At that time the city also will accept for consideration special projects such as the R-4 district and senior housing project.

When the reserves reach 5 percent, all who wish may apply for a permit. But under the ordinance, if the water reserves dip below 2 percent all building will cease.

One of the primary concerns raised by councilmembers regarding the new ordinance centered on a paragraph which concerns remodeling.

The clause said that if an applicant's renovation exceeded $1,000 within a 12-month period, they would have to retrofit all plumbing on the property.

Upon further examination, councilmembers felt that could be a hardship to some builders who were simply constructing a garage, which would cost about $10,000 but would not increase water usage.

"You should make the punishment fit the crime," said Councilman Bob Evans, referring to the penalty suffered by those residents not increasing water.

After much debate it was agreed that the city would word its retrofitting qualifications to read "25 percent of the floor space."

That is the same system used by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

The council also amended one paragraph which read that "no rooming house permits shall be issued or renewed..." to read no new rooming house permit shall be issued."

THE CITY, under the new ordinance, will eliminate some of its retrofit provisions that will be covered in a new ordinance prepared by the water district.

For its part the city plans to create conservation by replacing existing hardware with water-saving devices and requiring similar water-saving plumbing on new construction.

Also, the ordinance suggests planning irrigation that uses less water, such as lowoutput sprinkler heads and drip systems and selecting plants that require less water.

All projects in the commercial and R-4 districts that involve additions or new buildings will require approval and review of landscaping and irrigation plans by the planning commission.

Also, at least 75 percent of the area of all landscaped open space on sites in the commercial and R-4 districts will be planted with drought-tolerant and low-water use species recommended by the city forester.

Big Sur Land Trust sets up Cannery Row buy

TENACITY PAID off this week for the Big Sur Land Trust and peninsula residents as the agency took possession of a key Cannery Row property after the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District purchased the land Monday.

The two-acre bayfront parcel, known as the San Carlos Beach parcel and located between the U.S. Coast Guard facility and the Monterey Bay Inn, was part of a deal in which a $2.5 million escrow was closed Monday morning, according to Brian Steen, executive director of the Big Sur Land Trust.

"This came up as an important property on the peninsula," said Steen, referring to the trust's two years of negotiations with Melvin Swig, a co-owner of the property. "We stayed on the trail and were determined to see it in some sort of public use."

The undeveloped property provides an unobstructed vista of Monterey Bay and was a popular scuba diving site prior to the property being fenced in 1985.

The property was owned by a group of investors from San Francisco, including the Swig Partnership, with the intent at one time of building a high-rise hotel as an "anchor" for Cannery Row.

The Big Sur Land Trust had been negotiating with the investment group since 1985 with the hope that the property could be acquired for park and open space purposes.

In a double-escrow transaction that closed May 4, the land trust purchased the property from the investment group and immediately re-sold it to the park district, according to Brian Steen, executive director of the land trust. The reported purchase price to the park district was $2.5 million. The estimated fair market value of the property ranges from $2.6 to $3.2 million, according to Steen.

Sean Flavin, president of the park district board, commended the land trust for its role in negotiating the purchase of this significant parcel. Flavin added that the park district plans to approach the Monterey City Council at its next meeting to seek the city's joint participation in the project. If the city joins the district as co-owner, "the city and district would then jointly develop a master plan for the park and open space use of the parcel," according to Flavin.

The new acquisition is adjacent to the Monterey Recreational Trail, a joint project involving the city of Monterey, Pacific Grove and the park district. The trail is currently being constructed under the district of the city of Monterey.

City, district reach lawsuit settlement could also increase the allocations.

"Hopefully, the EIR will show the whole community, not just Carmel, how good the allocations are," Eastwood said.

If the total allocation has to be reduced, "then everybody has to reduce and it will show that we don't have that much water. We have to live in reality," he added.

The district would set aside 300 acre feet for jurisdictions to borrow from if they go over their allocation. Each jurisdiction can borrow as much as 100 acre feet.

The 300 acre feet will be taken from the unused portion of the 18,600 acre feet allocated to its jurisdictions. Not every municipality is consuming its allotment and the total system use last year was approximately 17,500 acre feet.

The district, explained water board chairman Dick Heuer, feels that none of the jurisdictions will exceed their allocations this year.

Because of that situation, the 300 acre feet will not have to be taken from another city's water supply.

HEUER SAID he is pleased with the agreement and felt no one won or lost.

"We had three goals: to help solve Carmel's problem; treat all jurisdictions equally; and not make the community more vulnerable to drought," he said.

The settlement "meets all our concerns," he added.

"I'm very gratified the settlement worked out to meet everyone's needs," Heuer said.

Now the district can focus its energies on more long-term solutions to the water problem, such as the proposed New San Clemente dam.

Both Heuer and Eastwood had praise for Silver.

"He was magnificent," Eastwood said.

"He was fair and listened to everyone."

"He really went out of his way to devote his time and energies to a solution," Heuer said. "He was very constructive."

Eastwood and Heuer said that communication had broken down between the district and the city, making it difficult to come to an agreement. That's when Silver stepped in.

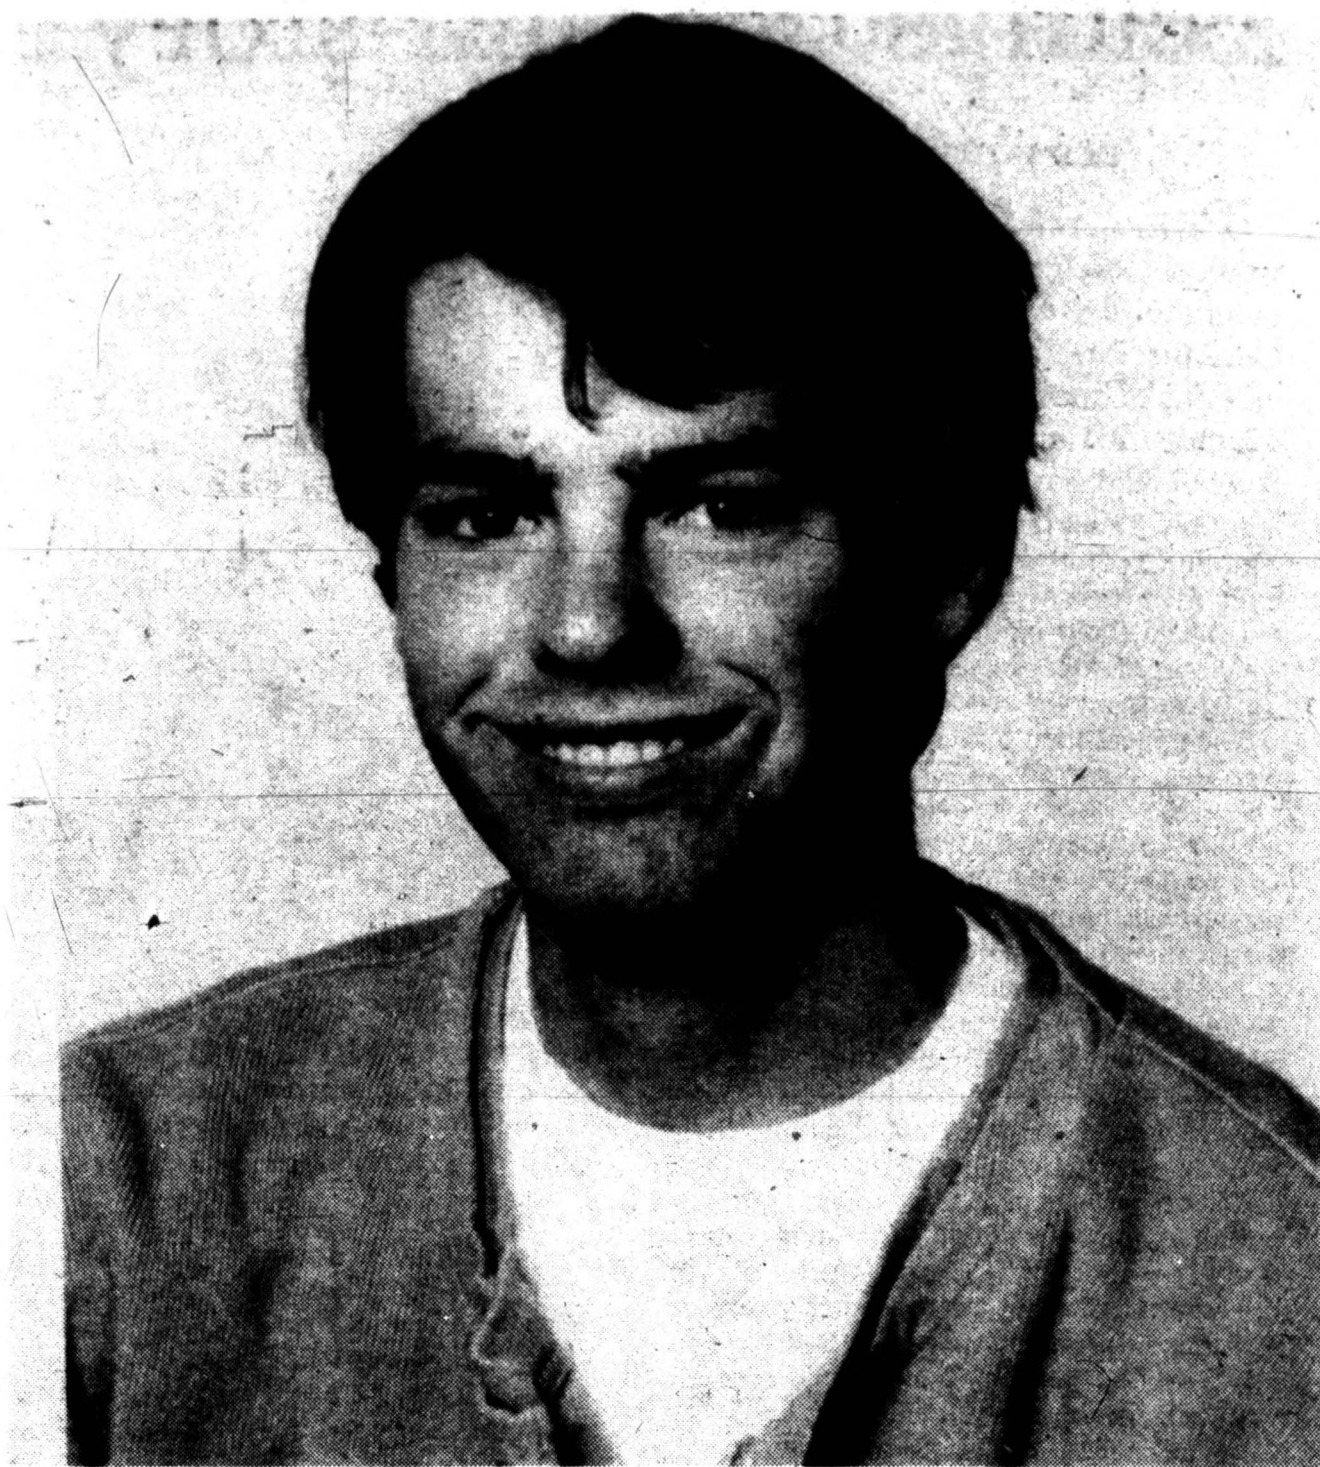

Evaluation committee members sought for CV Master Plan

FIFTH DISTRICT supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seeking applicants to serve on the Carmel Valley Citizens Subdivision Evaluation Committee.

"Now that we have our newly adopted and court approved Carmel Valley Master Plan to guide our planning for the next 20 years, citizens of the affected area will have the opportunity to participate in implementation of the plan," she said.

The committee will contribute to the formulation of bylaws and participate in the initial meetings by developing a scoring system for evaluating land use, rural quality and visual resources, water hydrology, traffic, noise, air quality, geology, ecology, cultural resources, public services and hazards. Committee members will evaluate and score minor and standard subdivision proposals within the Carmel Valley Master Plan area.

Strasser Kauffman urges interested residents within the Carmel Valley Master Plan boundaries to contact her office at 649-6515, or at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey 93940, to apply.

Student of the Month

CHRIS NOLTE has been chosen student of the month by the Carmel High School math department. He is probably among the highest achievers ever to attend Carmel High according to teachers and administrators. His interests and abilities seem almost infinite, but his special fields of interest are mathematics and science. He has received no grade under an "A" during his entire high school experience, yet has taken the most rigorous course of study offered at the school. He was recently named a National Merit Scholarship finalist. He has won county spelling bees and has placed either first or second in the county Mathletics Competition for the past five years. Last year, as a junior, he won the Harvest Book Award and the Bausch & Lomb Science Award. He attended Boys' State last year. He is a goalie for the Padre soccer team and after school and on weekends Nolte works at Safeway. After graduation he hopes to go to Venezuela as an American Field Service exchange student, and the following year either attend UC Berkeley, UC San Diego, Harvard or Stanford, to study math or science. His parents are Glenn and Merry Nolte.

This elegant piece of property continues to be one of the best investments I've made.

Water board will tackle conservation law again

By NANCY HILLS

CONSERVATION IS still alive and well at the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

This month, the district board will take another crack at putting together a district-wide water conservation ordinance acceptable to all agencies and jurisdictions within its boundaries.

The May board meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 11 in Monterey City Council Chambers.

The board conducted a public hearing on its proposed water conservation ordinance at its April 13 meeting. Comments were received then from representatives of Carmel and Pacific Grove; PG Mayor Morris Fisher said he would rather see the district go to 75 gallon per day rationing.

If the complete program is successful, said district general manager Bruce Buel, it could save the peninsula 1,000 acre feet of water per year (1 acre foot equals 325,851 gallons).

In its current form the ordinance establishes that:

- All new construction, commercial and residential, must be fitted with ultra-low flow fixtures, 1.5-gallon or less per flush toilets or 2.5-gallon or less per minute showerheads.

- All existing businesses and residences must retrofit to ultra-low flow fixtures within 30 days of a change of ownership. Any remodel of more than 25 percent of floor area also must retrofit.

The district is suggesting using a city plumbing permit, energy auditor, verification from a retail store or contractor or a homeowners' affidavit as ways to enforce the ordinance.

Members of the real estate community objected at the April 13 meeting to being responsible for enforcement.

- Hotels and motels will have 90 days from when the ordinance becomes law to retrofit to ultra-low flow showerheads.

- The district is requesting that all cities within its boundaries and Monterey County adopt "companion" conservation ordinances.

- Any business or residence that has changed to a 3.5-gallon-per-flush fixture based on city requirements within the past five years is exempt until the five years has passed.

Michael Ricker, district demand management coordinator, said that according to district records, the average home is owned by the same party for five to seven years and that is why the district chose the five-year timeframe.

People don't want to retrofit and be charged immediately with paying for another toilet, Ricker said.

"We're sympathetic with that," he added. The ordinance originally included a free conservation kit program for residents.

The kit program installation was originally planned as mandatory, but the district changed it to voluntary after Carmel requested the revision.

That section, however, has become a separate item while the district negotiates funding with Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency.

The district plans to purchase and distribute to residents water conservation kits that contain two 2.5-gallon showerheads and a toilet tank dam. The dam reduces water use per flush by approximately 1 gallon.

"The kits can save an average family $40 per year if they have a gas water heater and $140 per year if they have an electric water heater," Buel said.

The district hopes to split the $650,000 cost of the program with the regional water pollution control agency, which could reduce its sewage intake by as much as 1 million gallons per day through conservation, Buel explained.

Though the kit program has been removed as a separate item from the conservation ordinance, the board considered the program's funding mechanism.

The board will conduct its second and last reading of an ordinance to create a fund from a user fee it already collects.

The district will fund its share of the program through a bond which will be paid back through property taxes it receives from the county and the user assessment fee already in place.

In other business, the district will:

- Decide and vote about hiring an outside consultant to conduct an EIR on the allocation system.

The allocation system divides the total available water resource between the six cities and portion of Monterey County in the district.

The EIR was requested by Carmel, which filed a lawsuit last year against the district's allotment system.

Depending on the results of the report, the EIR could reduce or increase the amount of water each jurisdiction receives.

Money for the consultant will come out of next year's budget, Buel explained.

- Continue its pursuit of a reclamation plant which could provide the peninsula with about 800 acre feet of water. The board will request that Pebble Beach Co., which has expressed an interest in funding the plant, compose a letter that states its interest in the project and what conditions it would find acceptable.

- Consider smaller dam sizes to incorporate into an EIR/EIS on the proposed New San Clemente Dam.

The computer program developed by the district has indicated that a dam size smaller than 20,000 acre feet, the smallest dam the board has been considering, may meet water yield requirements.

However, a smaller dam may not meet other criteria, such as cost per acre foot or environmental restoration of the Carmel River.

Spanish Bay gets passing grade from county

By DAVID LELAND

DETRACTORS OF the Spanish Bay resort project might wince at the high marks given to the Pebble Beach Co. by the county, but according to a planning report, the company's permit compliance has been excellent.

Essentially, the report says that the Pebble Beach Co. is currently working on conditions that need to be met before the hotel can be opened, which is scheduled for late this winter.

These include: an alternate transportation plan that has already been submitted to the planning staff and a scenic easement at Huckleberry Hill, which the company is working on with the state Coastal Commission.

Other stipulations the Pebble Beach Co. needs to meet are: overall signing, public access easements designated in the Carmel Land Use Plan, agreement assuring public use of 17-Mile Drive and board approval on a transportation policy for the Del Monte Forest.

That is not to say, however, that there are no problems facing the complex — which will eventually consist of a luxury hotel, 18-hole golf course and 80 condominium units.

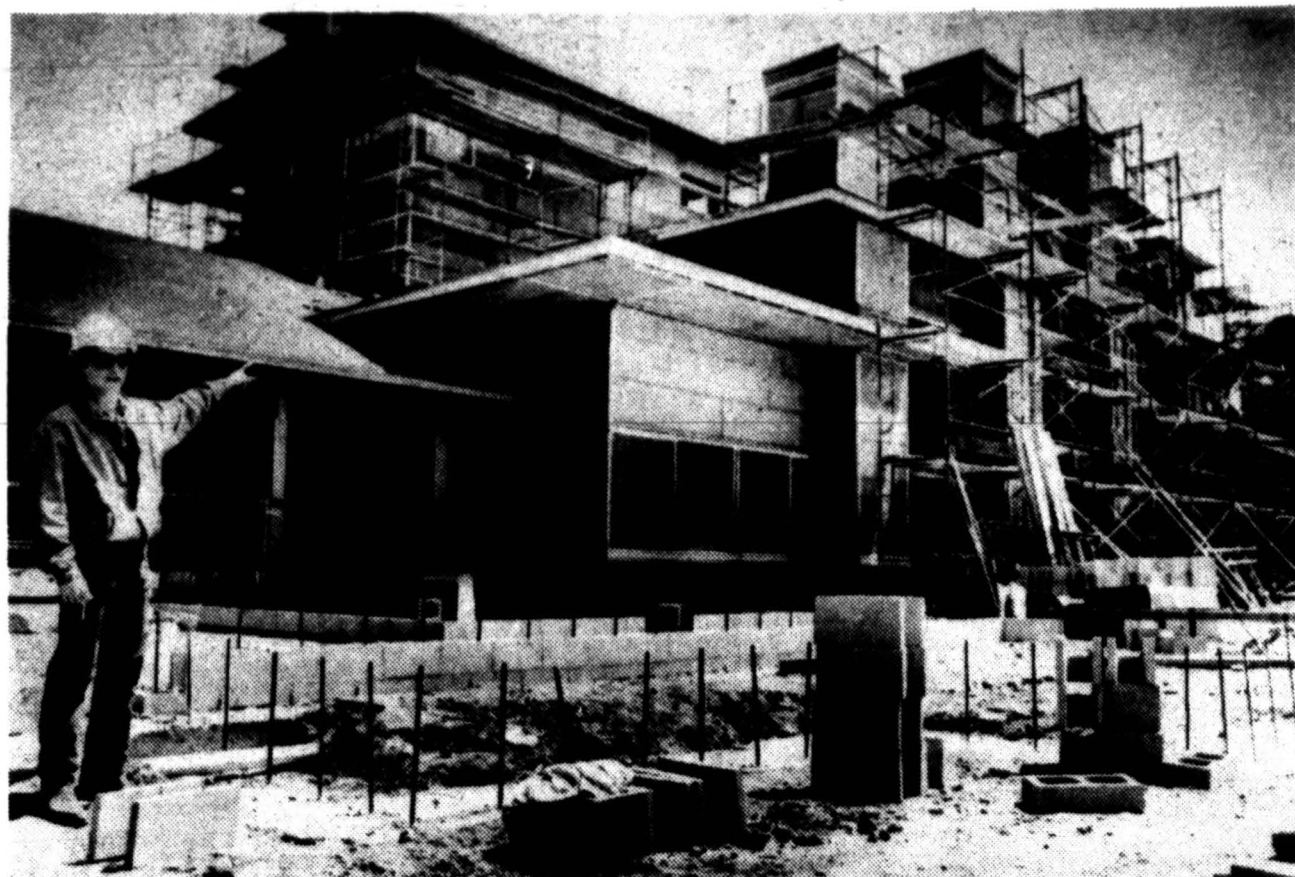

Accompanying the planning department's glowing report given to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Tuesday were 10 letters from peninsula residents voicing mistrust in several areas of the plan.

Principally, the respondents expressed concern that the sand dune restoration was not meeting the letter of the law.

Under the conditions of the permit given by the county, the sand dunes are to be replaced with same type of crystal white sand that was removed.

"Apparently there was not an adequate sand supply, a situation which could have been anticipated," said Lorita Fisher, president of the League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula.

She added, "Even the cap of sand that was DUE TO open late this winter, the hotel at Spanish Bay received good grades on its permit process this week from the Monterey to restore to some extent the dune aspect of the site is non-existent in most areas."

Fisher also expressed doubts that the vegetation that grows on the dunes will be able to stand up to the harsh conditions on the bay.

"Knowledgeable observers are doubtful as to the long-term survival of dune species, including rare and endangered plants because of the altered soil conditions," she wrote.

"Constant maintenance under professional care will be essential and it is questionable whether this will be forthcoming without active involvement by the county and Coastal Commission," said Fisher.

For its part, the Coastal Commission is looking into the charges, according to coastal planner Lee Otter.

"We have not investigated these allegations yet," Otter said. He added that earlier in the week the Coastal Commission had written a letter to the Pebble Beach Co. requesting an explanation.

The county is also looking into charges by Fisher that ponds which would provide a sanctuary for wildlife are filling up with sediment.

"The stream banks have been coated with concrete and revegetation with willows has been inadequate," she wrote. "This can hardly be considered enhancement."

THE GOLF course, according to Pebble Beach Co. spokeswoman Candy Ingram, will not open at the same time the hotel does. She speculated that the earliest the links would be in operation would be next spring.

But the holdup is not due to county regulations, which only require a operational plan. Ingram said the company does not want to open the course until the grass is thoroughly implanted.

Another obstacle hurdled by the Pebble Beach Co. was the installation of a conveyor belt which ferried sand from the edge of Del Monte Forest to Spanish Bay.

The planning staff report states that there were "relatively few complaints" received and now the conveyor has been removed.

The report adds that the trees removed for the belt will be replaced on a one-to-one basis, which is currently taking place. The company has one year to comply.

Wells in Carmel Valley split water board members

By NANCY HILLS

WHAT'S UNDERGROUND, not overground, divided the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board April 30.

The New San Clemente Dam became an "also-ran" controversy as new wells in Carmel Valley were discussed by the board.

The proposed wells were a subject of concern at a special board meeting designed to choose dam sizes for an environmental impact report/statement.

The water board voted April 30 for a detailed analysis of both a 29,000 acre foot and a 20,000 acre foot dam in its EIR on the project. A 29,000 acre foot dam is the largest size the board could select without reapplying to the state Water Resources Board.

A draft EIR/EIS is scheduled to be released in August, in time for a districtwide project "advisory vote" planned for November.

Selecting dam sizes slated for a in-depth analysis was one of the last parameters the board needed to do before consultants and water district staff complete their reports.

But it was wells in Carmel Valley that produced the most heated debate of the evening. Board members were divided on whether to include proposed California-American Water Co. wells in an analysis of the future water system if no dam is built. Cal-Am is considering one or two new wells.

The district must include in the EIR and the federally mandated EIS a detailed study of the future water resource system without a dam. That portion of the report is called the "no-project alternative."

The one or two wells are a part of Cal-Am's five-year plan. The company will present the new pump plans to the Public Utilities Commission at its rate hearing, which could be this fall or sometime next year.

Including the wells in the "no-project alternative," 5th District Supervisor and water board member Karin Strasser Kauffman said, is a major "change in policy. To see it listed here as an inevitable component is a major retreat."

Without the dam, the river will be dry, Strasser Kauffman said, and therefore sinking new wells that will draw off more underground water could do heavy environmental damage. Many people would resist the new facilities for that reason, she said. Chairman Dick Heuer agreed with her assessment.

Director Pat Bernardi, however, disagreed with their opinion.

Saying that she was not taking a stand for or against the wells, Bernardi said she believed the wells would be drilled.

"When push comes to shove, people get water...even though Carmel Valley is turning into a desert," Bernardi said.

Strasser Kauffman, Heuer and another board member, John Williams, stated that given the resistance to the current wells in Carmel Valley, no one could predict what would happen.

Furthermore, by including the wells in the "no-project" description, it would appear the district board was giving "tacit approval" to their installation, Heuer said.

Sand City mayor and water director David Pendergrass disagreed.

"I don't believe we should eliminate that option," he said.

Heuer stated that the option would not be eliminated, but the board should not include it as if it approved of new wells.

Cal-Am currently irrigates the trees and other vegetation around its present wells to reduce the damage. Larry Foy, Cal-Am general manager, said that program would be continued with the new pumps. Also, the proposed facilities would only be for peak production periods.

The wells were only one component of the recommended "no-project" description. Other facilities listed as a part of the future water resource system without a dam are:

- The present Los Padres reservoir.
- A partially dredged current San Clemente dam.
- An increased capacity Cal-Am Begonia treatment plant.
- The same capacity filter plant.
- And the addition of one of two wells in the Seaside aquifer, along with replacement of one well.

With the exception of dredging the present San Clemente Dam and the inclusion of a new fish passage device, all the above facilities and improvements were listed as components of the water system if the dam is built. The proposed Cal-Am wells were also listed.

Members of the board that opposed the wells without a dam, were agreeable to the new facilities with a dam.

The dam, according to Heuer, would allow the refilling of the aquifer, thus reducing the stress on the river and vegetation in the area.

CARMEL VALLEY PERSPECTIVE

All sides pleased with ruling on CV master plan

By DAVID LELAND

FRIDAY'S TWO-hour hearing clarifying traffic congestion standards in the Carmel Valley Master Plan at times resembled the brain twister that asks: "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?"

All sides agreed that traffic would increase during the 20 years the plan is in effect. But the rub with attorneys Alexander Henson and Richard Rosenthal centered on the point that the county had not conducted a feasibility study to see what the traffic impacts would be or when they would be put into effect.

County counsels J.R. Ramos and Ralph Kuchler took the position that when traffic becomes a problem, building would be stopped and the problem rectified.

Monterey Superior Court Judge Richard Silver agreed with the county, but simply wanted to know when traffic would constitute a "problem."

In the end, all sides were happy with a ruling by Silver which says when traffic congestion causes a deterioration below present levels of service, county officials must either stop issuing building permits or make road improvements.

"We're all happy, but they're probably a little happier than we are," said Henson, who along with Rosenthal has fought certain aspects of the plan since 1979.

Henson said they still have 60 days from the time Silver lifts the injunction to appeal the decision, but it was too soon to tell if that would be the case.

What Henson had feared was a nebulous set of criteria governing the valley's roads, which would be changed depending on the circumstances.

"Unless 'sufficient' and 'adequate' is clearly defined it will be redefined each Tuesday when the board of supervisors meets," he told Silver during the hearing. "That is the focus of this petition."

At the end of the hearing Silver said "now" are the standards.

By this he means the alphabetical system the county uses to describe road conditions, with "A" being the least congested and "F" the most tied up.

Under Silver's ruling, which he said will be written and issued this week, the optimum goal will be to maintain a level of "C."

While some levels of the valley are currently at that stage, others are well below it, such as the Mouth of the Valley, which is currently classified as "F."

Silver said that while he did not expect the county to bring all valley roads up to the level "C," he would not permit them to fall below their existing level.

At the close of the hearing, Silver gave accolades to Henson and Rosenthal for their vigilance in keeping the plan's standards from falling.

"I think you've done an excellent job over the years," he said. "This is a far better plan than we started with. And much of that has to do with your expertise and knowledge."

NOW THAT the master plan has received approval from Silver, the county will still need to find a way to carry out its complicated evaluation system governing new building.

Under the plan, new permits will be given points on such items as rural quality, visual resources, water hydrology, ecology, noise, traffic and cultural resources.

During the next 20 years, the plan allows a maximum of 1,310 new building permits. Of those, 572 are lots of record while 738 will be subject to the allocation system.

The plan calls for the formation of an allocation committee which will forward its recommendations to the county. The committee will be composed of private citizens.

"Now that we have a newly-adopted and court-approved Carmel Valley Master Plan...citizens of the area will have the opportunity to participate in implementation of the plan," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman.

"This is the opportunity we have demanded," she continued. "Now we can assure that orderly development, in keeping with the rural character of the valley, can take place."

Strasser Kauffman said any interested residents within the Carmel Valley Master Plan boundaries should contact her office at 1200 Aquajito Road in Monterey.

Valley athletes participated in Special Olympics

FIVE ATHLETES from Carmel Valley were among the nearly 300 participants from throughout Monterey County who took part in the 12th annual Monterey County Special Olympics Area Games at Monterey Peninsula College April 25.

Athletes from Carmel Valley participating in the games were Gary K. Bizer, Kenneth E. Bizzini, Jeffrey Hayes, John Lang and Melissa Parham.

Handing out awards that day was Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood.

Competition was held in swimming, track and field, gymnastics and basketball. Clinics were held in volleyball, racewalking and shot put.

Special Olympics athletes from Monterey County this year will participate in a variety of sporting events, including trips to Los Angeles, San Luis Obispo, Napa, Marin, Merced and Santa Cruz. Five athletes took part in a skiing competition last month at the State Winter Games and two athletes are scheduled to participate in the International Games to be held this summer at Notre Dame University.

Barracudas swimming team shatter team records

MEMBERS OF the Barracudas of the Monterey Peninsula blistered personal and team records at a recent swimming championship in Walnut Creek.

According to head coach Mike Bettencourt the Barracudas from the Carmel and Carmel Valley areas not only did well individually, but against more seasoned swimmers at the Far Western Short Course Age Group Championships last month.

"They proved they're not just big fish in a small pond (here on the peninsula)," he said. "There were a lot of future Olympians at the meet, so anything in the top 20 is real good."

More than 1,300 swimmers from 165 swim clubs from Western United States, Canada and several foreign countries, participated in the championships, he added.

For the record, the girls took third in the overall freestyle relay and fourth in the overall medley relay for their age group. The boys captured fourth overall in the 200-meter freestyle relay and sixth overall in the medley relay.

Individually, Tisha Satow took ninth overall in the 50 backstroke, 13th in the 100 backstroke, and a pair of 18th-place finishes in the 100 freestyle and 50 butterfly. She also set new club records in four of the events.

Lauren Johnson set three personal bests, while in the boys division, Kyle Nichols took second overall in the 50 breaststroke and anchored the boys' 200 freestyle relay, which clocked in at one-one hundredth of the national record for their age group. All relays were new Barracuda club records.

"We turned a few heads," said Bettencourt, who also coaches the Carmel High School boys and girls swim teams. "It's amazing how many good kids come out of this area, which is not too supportive of swimming."

Team members included: Satow, Nichols and Johnson, Noelani Garcia, Lauren Picard, Michael Allaire, Aaron Gaily and Jonathan Cook.

Library board to decide on work to be done on new annex site

By DAVID LELAND

THE HARRISON Memorial Library Board of Trustees will try to nail down exactly who will provide architectural services and how much work will be required on the new library annex at a special meeting next week.

At last month's board meeting the trustees heard a report by Margaret Pelikan, library director, detailing the options for contracting an architect's services, which Pelikan said will be "extensive."

At that time, the board agreed it wanted to stick with architectural agency Hall, Goodhue, Haisley and Barker, who have been working with library staff since 1980 remodeling the existing library.

The board could have accepted bids for services from outside contractors, but decided it was happy with the work of a familiar group of architects.

The board also requested that the agency retain the services of architects Gretchen Flesher and Bill Foster who, until recently, worked with Hall, Goodhue, Haisley and Barker but left the company to pursue private practice.

Both Flesher and Foster have worked closely with the library during designing of the library computer room, library lobby and the planning of three different annex options.

While the two are currently operating their own architectural businesses, Pelikan cited liability insurance coverage could stop the architects from performing work without the umbrella of a larger company's insurance.

The special meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, May 14 in the council chambers at Carmel City Hall, located on Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues.

Pelikan said the renovation on the Crocker Bank building, located at Sixth Avenue and Mission Street, should begin "within three months" and be completed and in operation within a year.

The library board will pay for the work out of its more than $1 million trust fund.

Residential zone motels on planners agenda May 13

By NANCY HILLS

MOTELS IN the residential zone will get some attention at the Carmel Planning Commission meeting next week.

The commission will meet at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 13 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

Two R-1 zone motels have applied for changes, one which will require an interpretation of a 1968 initiative limiting residential zone motels.

Sunset House, on Camino Real Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues, has requested a permit to convert its manager's unit to a guest room. The conversion would increase the number of rentals from three to four.

Attorney Myron "Doc" Etienne, representing Sunset House owners Frederick DeWolfe and Geraldine Emory, maintained at a Land Use Committee meeting April 27 that the motel had four guest rooms when the initiative was approved, therefore it could return to that number.

Staff Planner Brian Roseth, however, stated that he believed the planning department records indicate the motel only had three units in 1968.

Also, the current general plan prohibits changing any use or structure to visitor lodgings, he said in a later interview with The Carmel Pine Cone.

Planning Director Diane White takes a different view. Motels are incompatible with residential areas, and that means the impact should be reduced. Around-the-clock managers help reduce any disruption to the neighborhood.

"It is an incongruity to have motels in residential areas. A caretaker should be there at all times. The manager is a 'mitigation' of basic conflict between a commercial motel and single-family residences," White said.

A manager will be there if the guests get noisy or rowdy and will keep the place in better order, she added.

The second residential motel application is for The Edgemere Cottages, on San Antonio Street between Thirteenth and Santa Lucia avenues. The motel has applied to construct a solarium to heat the manager's unit. It does not increase the "habitable space" in the motel, according to the application.

In other business, the commission will conduct a design review on an entrance and window addition to Toots Lagoon. The additional entrance would be just inside the fence along Piccadilly Park and the window would look out onto the entrance to the park.

In other business, the commission will conduct a design review on an entrance and window addition to Toots Lagoon. The additional entrance would be just inside the fence along Piccadilly Park and the window would look out onto the entrance to the park.

The city council on Tuesday, May 5 approved in concept Toots Lagoon's request to put the door inside the park and add the window. Restaurant customers will be able to enter the establishment through the park. As a condition of the agreement, the public will be able to use the restaurant's bathrooms.

Additionally, the commission will review use permits for:

- For Car Buffs Only, an extension of the car accessories shop at The Crossroads, in The Mall on San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.
- Landell Studios to move from the corner of Dolores Street and Fifth Avenue to Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues. The new location will be an interior design studio with some artworks.
- An Indonesian art gallery to take over the current location of Equinox Jewelers on Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Dolores street.

CONSCIENTIOUS POWER.

The new Mercedes-Benz 300D Turbo is the most technologically advanced diesel-powered sedan ever built for sale. Astonishingly quick, it has a top test-track speed of 128 mph. Yet it is astonishingly quiet as well. The quiet comes from a three-liter, six-cylinder turbodiesel engine that is both intrinsically smooth and acoustically encapsulated for an uncanny reduction in noise. Also reduced, in significant levels, are visible exhaust emissions, thanks to its sophisticated ceramic trap oxidizer, pictured above. Test-drive the new 300D Turbo—diesel performance in its most conscientious form.

Lottery funds a mixed blessing for CUSD

By DAVID LELAND

MONEY GAINED from the state lottery seems to fall into the mixed blessing category for the Carmel Unified School District. Without the quarterly payments the district would have trouble meeting its payroll, but educators had hoped the money could be spent in a more creative fashion.

For CUSD Assistant Supt. Vance Baldwin, who prepares and balances the district's annual budget, the job of spending this year's first two lottery payments — which total $96,500 — has offered several options, perhaps for the last time.

"Next year I would expect all of the lottery money will be used to help us maintain the current programs," he said. "That's not enhance, but (only) maintain."

It should be noted that the lottery only comprises 2.5 percent of the district's budget. Last year, this came to $320,565 but Baldwin said this figure is dropping because people are playing the state lottery less.

This pattern is also reflected statewide with the governor's budget estimating lottery returns to be $88.10 per student in 1986-87 school year, a drop of about $40 from the previous year.

During the past year the district has had the luxury of using its money for projects such as:

- Spending $14,000 for staff development such as workshops, curriculum development and a variety of in-house activities.
- Allotting $31,000 for updating the district's library collection.
- Spending $47,500 on a new school bus for the students of Captain Cooper School in Big Sur.
- For upgrading science equipment and a variety of instructional equipment, the district spent an additional $61,000 of lottery-related money.

But the lion's share of the supposed wind-fall money went to meet the CUSD's day-to-day expenses, with $160,000 being directed toward that purpose, Baldwin said.

Baldwin added that the problem of allowing lottery funds to be used for salaries is that once it is figured into the budget, it stays there.

He offered as an example the CUSD's $3.2 million agreement it reached with teachers last September. Baldwin said in order to meet the demands of the teacher's union, the district needed to come up with additional money. Its only resource was the lottery fund.

BUT THERE is more than simply having to direct lottery funds in a way that is less than desirable for the district. For CUSD, depending on an intangible amount is not a comfortable way to have to conduct business.

"It's unpredictable," said Baldwin referring to the unknown factor of how many lottery tickets will be played in a given year. "It's not a stable, long-term solution to school finance in California and that's what we need."

Baldwin also remains critical of the state's general policy concerning education.

"If we were a nation, we'd be the sixth richest in the world," said Baldwin, referring to the economic success of the state. "But we're 42nd in educational spending."

According to Bill Honig, state superintendent of public instruction, California spent 32.2 percent of all state and local funds on education, which ranks it 42nd.

At the same, Honig said, Californians spent $33.69 of every $1,000 in personal income on education, which ranks it 47th in the nation.

The state continues to rank 50th in the nation in class size, averaging 23 students to one teacher. The national average is about 18 students per one instructor.

With 85 percent of the CUSD budget composed of salaries, insurance and books, Baldwin is expecting the elimination of some programs next year because of lack of funds. One of these may be the district's classes for gifted students.

And unless there is an increased budget for education, which will be voted on in the state Legislature this June, the CUSD will be faced with using its share of lottery funds to stay afloat in the 1987-88 school year.

"It's (lottery) been a real help, but the budget has not caught up," Baldwin said.

Big Sur being serviced by microwave phone system

SOME OF the most advanced telecommunications technology in the world is now in place on one of the world's most primitive, rugged and beautiful coastal areas - Big Sur.

Pacific Bell reports customers in the Big Sur area are now being serviced by a $220,000 microwave system which will provide them with more reliable phone service.

According to Pacific Bell engineers, the new system is much more impervious to the mud slides and fires characteristic of this area.

"In the past, natural disasters continually interrupted phone service since conventional lines in the area could not withstand their harsh environment," said Dave Perry, Pacific Bell splicing technician.

Two microwave dishes now atop Anderson Peak in the Ventana Wilderness, and a camouflaged billboard-like reflector on Mount Manuel were installed by Pacific Bell construction crews in record time — less than one month.

Telephone signals sent by microwave radio from Pacific Bell's Big Sur central office are now reflected off of Mount Manuel and converted into electronic signals by the microwave dishes on Anderson Peak. These electronic signals are then rapidly transported down the mountain by digital carrier lines.

"The whole transmission from start to finish works so quickly, it's instantaneous," said Hank Schoenbeck, Pacific Bell's planning engineer on the project.

"We are quite pleased with Pacific Bell's new service and are grateful the company followed through on a plan to ensure continuous phone service to an area like Big Sur," said Art McDole, director of communications for Monterey County.

Pacific Bell is a subsidiary of Pacific Telesis Group, a diversified telecommunications corporation based in San Francisco.

Staying the course

Dear Boys in Carmel:

Imagine my surprise, fellas, when I recently received a double dose of news from you two. Back here in my part of Nebraska most folks think a postcard from as far away as Des Moines is a big deal. I get a letter from Carmel!

First off, thanks for your explanation about the way to determine a reasonable return on my investments. Your letter was real clear about the risk-free rate and how that can be used as a yardstick to measure investment performance. With the risk-free rate at 6 percent currently I don't see anything too crazy about getting more than that on my utility stocks. In fact, I went out a bought some more recently when prices slid way down to the lowest levels in about a year. They tell me folks out your way can get a blue chipper like Southern Cal Edison with a current yield of about 7.25 percent. You Californios are real smart.

But the reason I'm writing to you again is not to respond to your letter but to the second piece of news I received from you recently. And that, of course, came from my nephew, G. Banjo Funnel, my brother Latrobe's son.

Before I knew he had left, I read in the local Nebraska paper that he had gone out to your neck of the woods to participate in the Big Sur Marathon. G. Banjo is basically a good solid boy but he often goes off on adventures to strange places.

Anyway, when he returned he sure enough brought me a furry sea otter doll and the following info in the form of one long speech:

"Uncle Halliburton, I did what you asked and looked up those investment fellows and asked them what they really thought about the market. Didn't they think it was time to cash in?

"They responded by comparing investing to running in the marathon. They said that the key thing about investing in stocks was to stay the course, stick with your own program and discipline. You can't win a marathon by changing your direction every hundred feet or so."

You know, boys, when G. Banjo told me that, I went out and bought those cheap utility stocks when all my neighbors were in-panic because prices had gone so low. You'd be proud of me for staying the course and sticking to my strategy.

And my nephew went on to say you'd always believed in buying on weakness and lately you've noticed folks saying that they won't buy till there's a major correction. They're waiting for the big kill instead of staying the course and buying good stocks when they look like they're temporarily on sale.

Well, boys, I still hope to come out there one day with my better half Calpurnia and try some of that Cal cuisine. My best to Mac and those good folks at the Pine Cone.

Thinking of myself as a friend, I am
Halliburton G. Funnel

Dear Halliburton:

All we can add to the good sense of your letter is a small statistical footnote. For those folks who have stayed the course in good stocks throughout the last six or seven decades, through Bull markets and Bear markets, with reinvestment of dividends, the return has been about three times the risk-free rate. Give our best to G. Banjo.

PLANNING NEW VILLA TRACTS

With the construction of the new Carmel-Monterey highway, as outlined in last week's Pine Cone, will come the laying out of two beautiful villa sites - one by the Carmel Development Company, just inside the northern city limits, the other on the adjoining land of the Del Monte Properties Company.

The streets, terraces and drives of the latter addition will be made to conform to and connect with the street layout of Carmel, thus opening up a vast new section for the establishment of homes.

Ultimately it is likely that the territory embraced in the Del Monte Property Company's part of these improvements will be asked to join the municipality of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

LOOK FOR WINE BOTTLES AS YOU BATHE IN SURF

Visitors to beaches along the American coast line of the Pacific Ocean during the next few months should watch for quart wine bottles afloat in the water or cast up on shore. By doing this they may aid materially in an intensive study of ocean currents, according to Dr. H.U. Sverdrup, director of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, of the University of California.

The institution has joined with the California Fish and Game Commission in making the study, the commission being interested in the surface currents during the time of the year when sardines are spawning.

The study will be made by a series of drift-bottle experiments. The boat Bluefin of the commission will make three different cruises into the ocean, and on each cruise 2000 bottles will be cast out at various locations. Each bottle will contain a card printed in both Spanish and English, on which the finder is asked to note the location in which he found the bottle, together with the date, and mail the card to the fish and game commission.

"I am unalterably opposed to lights in the business district," Councilman Frank Putnam told other members of the council last night. This statement was in answer to requests for a street light at Monte Verde and Fifth, requested by The Christian Science Church; another at Junipero and Fourth, requested by the adult board of the Carmel Youth Center.

The first light will be considered on the council's June tree tour; the other was turned down.

Allowed by a 4-1 vote was the marking of a tree on Mountain View west of Crespi Lane to help motorists avoid hitting it. Councilman Whitaker cast the "No" vote. He maintained "the only thing motorists pay attention to is a tree."

PARK OR PIPE DREAM?

City Forester Gregory D'Ambrosio told the Carmel Forestry Commission at their April 26 meeting that the City of Carmel is on the brink of turning its public parks into public dumps.

The Commission proposes to dump the following resolution in City Council's lap: "We are opposed to the use of Flanders-Doolittle park for storage. This is a park and any other use is contradictory to its intended use as a park."

Under the direction of city council, the Public Works Department has quietly hauled stacks of drain pipe for storage in Flanders-Doolittle Park, according to D'Ambrosio. The park is located directly across from the Carmel Mission on Rio Road.

WATER DISTRICT TO ACT ON PLAN TO MANAGE CARMEL RIVER

Directors of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District are to decide May 10 whether to proceed with plans for a $150,000-per-year Carmel River management program.

A recent survey of Carmel Valley residents indicated support for some type of program to control erosion and sedimentation in the river, stabilize channel banks, regulate the removal of riparian vegetation, monitor groundwater levels, and replant denuded riverbanks.

Carmel athletes participate in Special Olympics

FOUR ATHLETES from Carmel were among the nearly 300 participants from throughout Monterey County who took part in the 12th annual Monterey County Special Olympics Area Games at Monterey Peninsula College April 25.

Athletes from Carmel included Carla L. Blackman, John W. McNair, Robert A. Moritz, and Ricky Murphy.

Handing out awards that day was Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood.

Competition was held in swimming, track and field, gymnastics and basketball. Clinics were held in volleyball, racewalking and shot put.

Special Olympics athletes from Monterey County this year will participate in a variety of sporting events, including trips to Los Angeles, San Luis Obispo, Napa, Marin, Merced and Santa Cruz. Five athletes took part in a skiing competition last month at the State Winter Games and two athletes are scheduled to participate in the International Games to be held this summer at Notre Dame University.

Library will celebrate its 60th year in style

By DAVID LELAND

THE HARRISON Memorial Library will celebrate its 60th birthday in style next week by pushing the reading tables aside and throwing a full-blown party.

While preparations have been a month in the making, the actual party will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday, May 14, in the library, located at Ocean Avenue and Lincoln Street.

And, while the entire community is invited to come and share birthday cake and punch, children's librarian Rosalie Ferrante told the The Pine Cone that costumes are in order, with a contest being held that day.

Not just any costume, mind you, this one should portray your favorite book character. Ferrante added that costume contestants should bring along the book which features the person they are trying to emulate.

The judging, conducted by Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler and library board trustees Seldon Smith, Jack Billwiller and George Kennedy, will be broken down into several categories.

Instead of age, the judging will be based on preschool/primary students, intermediate grades, middle school and high school or over.

The winners will be awarded books featuring different aspects of life in Carmel.

Other award ceremonies that day will include a poster and essay contest with entries presented by students from eight peninsula schools.

Youths from preschool through 12th-grade have spent the past month drawing posters depicting their idea of the library's 60th birthday.

The posters will be mounted, laminated and displayed at the library, with local artists Irene Lagorio and Jeanne Bellmer joined by Smith, Billwiller and Kennedy judging the drawings.

The essays, submitted by intermediate through 12th-grade students, will be one-page affairs describing the contribution of the library to the city of Carmel and surrounding communities.

Those will be judged by local authors Bob Irvine and Bob Campbell, again joined by Smith, Billwiller and Kennedy.

As with the costume awards, the prizes given the winners will be books featuring life in Carmel.

ACTUALLY, THE library's 60th birthday should have been held last month; it was in April of 1927 that the structure was completed. But with Easter vacation forcing peninsula students to lose a week of school, library officials decided to wait until May in order to give them time to complete their posters and essays.

And it was much more than 60 years ago that the library saga began.

It was in 1918 that Ella Reid Harrison moved to Carmel and within a short time grew to love the quaint village.

Upon her death, her will revealed that she had left Carmel 20 $1,000 municipal bonds to build a library at the current site. She also bequeathed all her books and furniture to the library.

While many of her valuable books were destroyed by a fire which ravaged her home, the Harrison Room in the library still contains many of the treasures she left behind.

The only problem Carmel had with accepting the gift was that no money was allotted in the will for general maintenance of the library once it was built. While no solution was found, the city accepted the gift, but no work was done.

Four years later, a new board of trustees decided to build the library and take advantage of a state law permitting a library tax on property owners.

And, in 1927, the Harrison Memorial

DURING THE early 1900s, the entire Carmel Library fit in this small log cabin.

Library became a reality and opened its doors to the community with shelves stocked with 4,500 books.

And how it has grown. Now, library officials are faced with the unenviable task of weeding out surplus books, with the library bulging with more than 80,000. The building was designed to handle 20,000 books.

When the library opened, the building housed only a reading room and lobby, but in 1949 a wing was added on for children's services.

That wing was remodeled in 1976 and the children's services were moved downstairs and the administrative and reference areas were installed in that space.

But with the installation of computerized circulation in 1984 that space was cut in size by one-third.

Library officials said they hope the new annex, which will be housed in the vacant Crocker Bank building, will provide sufficient space for the impacted children's services.

Red Cross sets free blood pressure test

EVERY WEDNESDAY the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross will conduct free blood pressure testing.

The public can receive free testing from 2 to 4 p.m. every Wednesday at the chapter house, Dolores and Eighth in Carmel.

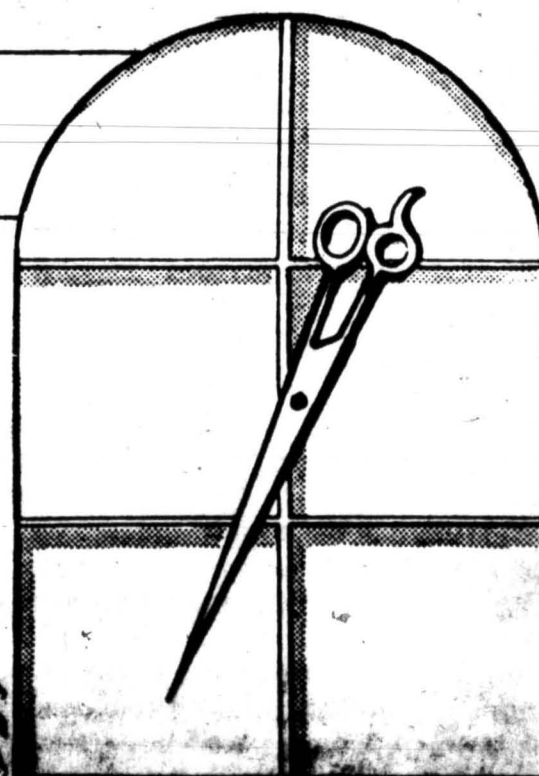

BUILT IN 1927, the Harrison Memorial Library quickly became an integral part of Carmel life. Note the sparse vegetation in this photo taken in 1929.

Edwardian era revisited

THE ERA of opulence and luxury before the world wars was revived and relived for one evening at the old Del Monte Hotel. An Edwardian Ball was held Saturday night in the hotel that became a social Mecca for the rich and the royal as soon as it opened its doors.

Charles Crocker headed the register on June 20, 1880. In those days guests arrived aboard the "Lightning Express" train from San Francisco to visit "the most elegant seaside resort in the world" with hot and cold running water and telephones in every room (for $3 a day). It sported the largest, most lavish ladies billiard parlor in the United States, croquet and archery courts, a polo field, horseracing track, a dirt track for automobiles, a bowling alley, a men's smoking room (now a chapel with two powerful paintings by Dan Sayre Groesbeck), not one, but two championship golf courses (first courses in California) and this is where the Davis Cup matches originated. During the Depression a couple could stay here for $17 a day with three meals.

Back in the early years of this century there was a revolution in clothing which elevated ladies skirts above the ankles and the dance crazes were the Tango, the Turkey Trot, and the Bunny Hug. The Flickers were shown at the Nickelodeon and by 1914 Mary Pickford has amassed a fortune and become America's sweetheart. Rumors were going around that nearly everyone could own one. Imagine that!

In 1907 the Del Monte Hotel opened an art gallery for two reasons. First, to help the artists who were devastated by the earthquake of 1906, and second to show off the California artists to the snobbish Eastern society people. This was the beginning of the art colony on the Monterey Peninsula. Some of those paintings (known as "Barbizons of California") were shown at the ball along with a showcase of Edwardian memorabilia for the 80th Anniversary Celebration of the gallery opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Calhoun, who masterfully planned this historic and cultural event, greeted the 200 socially elite guests (many in Edwardian dress). These elegant ladies and gentlemen (a few in white tie) sipped champagne in the capacious lobby underneath the beauty of two Francis McComas paintings, the artist who best captured the color and feel of the Monterey Peninsula. One of Pacific Grove is fictitiously named Moss Beach. Legend had it that PG fell into disfavor after the artist was jailed for intoxication by the temperance-minded citizens there. The music of Richard LaSalle floated gently through the nostalgia-charged air.

Mrs. Carlos Sheldon Stanley felt very much at home, having moved here in 1928 when her husband became manager. She attended the gala with her son Fred (who grew up in the hotel), his wife Pauline and her grandson Christopher Stanley.

William H. Silva of Carmel and Los Angeles remembered visiting his friend Fred Stanley at the Del Monte when as teenagers they would open the huge hotel refrigerator doors and choose any dessert that struck their fancy. A highlight of one visit was seeing Mickey Rooney and his new bride Eva Gardner celebrating their honeymoon around The Roman Plunge in 1942.

Bill's grandfather (same name) was one of the artists shown in the 1907 art gallery. Bill and his lovely wife, Marilyn, just couldn't miss The Edwardian Ball even though they were giving a party for 250 the following day in their Los Angeles home.

A life-size diorama was placed near the entrance to the Barbara McNitt Ballroom by the History Art Association. There is a beautiful mosaic fountain with the Del Monte Crest in the ballroom and windows which look out over a formal, sculptured garden. Giving a true Edwardian look were ferns, palms and topiary trees. Table centerpieces were art palette, paint brush, rose-colored flowers and a can of paint with the DMR (Del Monte Revisted) label. Jerry Welling is credited with the decor, which included large cutout figures and a mission.

Working on this regal event were Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Bell, Ms. Barbara Burdick, Captain and Mrs. Dempsey Butler, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Harold Compton, Mrs. Donna Kneeland, Mr. and Mrs. Richard LaSalle, Mrs. William McFarlane (who did the calligraphy), Com. Allen Sherwood, Mrs. C.E. Spangenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stanley, and Mr. and Mrs. Dirk van der Burch.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson were guests of Mrs. Justin Dart, as were Mr. William Hyler, Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. William Durney and Mr. Dale Reis. Other table hosts were: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Zellmer, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Cannon, Mrs. Virginia Burk, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford L. Berger, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vreeland, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Green, Mrs. Raymond Creisland, Mr. and Mrs. Jean S. Paillard, Mrs. John Kneeland, Dr. and Mrs. Harold L. Compton, Mr. Michael Stanton, Mrs. Will Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Dirk van der Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Dupre Sassard, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. George Greenwald, Ms. Barbara Burdick, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Robert Austin and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Calhoun.

Dale Lefler conducted the formal Grand March to the music of the John Daly Band, first by twos, then by fours, and by

BAUBLES BANGLES AND BIDS

The De Anza Ballroom of the Doubletree Inn was transformed into a stunning, sophisticated spectacle by Janet Gendelman and Peter Hiller for the Congregation Beth Israel's night for a dinner auction. A city skyline, top hats, black and white balloons, with touches of red here and there for accent, greeted the guests who came to dine and to bid on auction items donated to help Congregation Beth Israel with building fund needs. Charles and Kerry Beren were auction evening chairpersons; the event raised $21,707.

The baubles and bangles turned out to be such things as: a 14K gold and onyx bead necklace and earrings (donated by Alan Bienenfeld) or a liquid silver necklace; "Putting on the Ritz" (shopping at Rittmaster and Lloyds Shoes in Carmel and to show them off at lunch at Chutney's); a Morley Baer photograph of Point Sur; a week for four in Maui's Kapalua Bay Villas given by Shelli and Norm Glaser (billed "Wowie Maui"); or "The Great Escape" (a weekend for two at L'Hermitage Hotel in Beverly Hills).

The programs were the artistic efforts of Bill and Jane Tyler and serving on the acquisitions committee were: Jill Borden, Maureen Chodosh, Linda Kaiser, Rob Kaplan, Marsha Kading-Kelly and Joyce Kurtz. Don May (Butterfield and Butterfield) conducted the live auction. Chateau Julien graciously provided the dinner wine.

DINNER FOR BIG SUR: THE MAGNIFICENT IMMENSITY

It was serious business that brought the members and guests of the Big Sur Coastal Partnership and the Big Sur Preservation Fund together for a fund-raising dinner. The purpose was a campaign to raise $62,500 for a land preservation initiative for open space for all time in Big Sur.

Speaking on behalf of the initiative were Assemblyman Eric Seastrand, Rep. Leon Panetta and 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who looked lovely in an opalescent dress as she said, "We want to keep Big Sur for the future as it is now."

Although the Big Sur issue is a serious matter, the social evening was fun. The Monterey Plaza culinary staff prepared special dishes which were named for old-time Big Sur families such as Brazil, Castro, Dani, Grimes, Harlan (the Harlans were celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary), Molera, Pfeiffer and Trotter. Mr. and Mrs. Gary Koepfel flew back early from their Paris vacation just to attend and Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood came.

Heading the dinner committee were Jo Stallard, James Josoff and Margaret Owings who spent her 75th birthday working on this event. She was compensated at the dinner when everyone sang Happy Birthday in her honor.

cooking school to celebrate the new publication. Attending were Mayor Morris Fisher, councilmen Bob Russell and Bud Nunn, and other citizens of the area.

Everyone seems pleased that the great city, pardon, the great "hometown," will again have local news coverage for its residents.

Russell recalled newspapers of the past: The Tide which came before High Tide and he also remembers when the citizens were opposed to Walt Disney movies because of the violence in them. The PG/PB Tribune closed two years ago. Well, times have changed a lot, but Pacific Grove remains a great place to live.

Long live The Monarch!

FIRESIDE FEAST

Imagine a dinner with not one, not two, but 18 internationally-acclaimed master chefs pooling a wealth of culinary talent to prepare a glorious feast. This really happened — right here in Carmel, at the Highlands Inn. It culminated a vast undertaking of six days filled with discussions and demonstrations by masters of wine as well as food. And all open to the public.

The final evening was almost too grand to believe. While champagne was served in the Lobos Lounge, both fireplaces were ablaze in the Fireside Room and music came from a grand piano and harp centered for dining pleasure.

It seemed that the chefs (from Germany, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Highlands Inn) has so much fun working together that they added a course now and then to the six-course dinner. I don't know who made the Duck Pate (super-licious), but I wish we could keep Josef Viehhauser (of Hamburg) to continue to make his out-of-this-world Marinated Scallops and Whitefish with Curry. Would like to have available the Wiener Schnitzel of Artichoke Vinaigrette of Rabbit made to perfection by Joachim Splichar (of Jams New York and London). Wish we could hang on to Adolf Andersen and Johann Lafer (Hamburg and Guldenthal) for their marvelous melt-in-the-mouth desserts. Thank goodness we do have Don Ferch and Guy Leroy (of Highlands Inn) who made the super "The Best of Veal."

The silver-and-black tables were accented with votive candles, white lilies and regal reeded black spikes. Six wine glasses were placed for each of the 100 guests. After those were filled, sipped and removed, four more appeared. With the removal of those, again four more appeared. The early Romans would have been in heaven, as we all were. We dined from 7 p.m. until 1 a.m. and loved every moment and every morsel. Hedonistic? Perhaps, but a rare and unbelievable treat right here in Carmel.

Will Highlands Inn and Lufthansa do a repeat next year? We certainly hope so.

ANIMAL RIGHTS ACTIVIST TO SPEAK MAY 11

Animals rights activist Thomas Regan will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday May 11 at Carmel High School Library. Regan, author of The Case for Animal Rights, veteran speaker and professor of philosophy at North Carolina State University, is a recipient of the Mahatma Ghandi Award for his contributions to animal rights. He will speak and show a video about human ethics and animal rights as well as answer questions.

"He's the most rational of all animal rights people," said Jo Stallard, an environmentalist and Monterey County Planning Commissioner.

For more information contact Stallard at 375-9357.

FOOD BANK NEEDS VOLUNTEERS FOR GLEANING FIELDS

The Monterey County Food Bank, a program of the Alliance on Aging, needs volunteers to glean fields of produce to feed low-income seniors and families.

Gleaning is the harvesting of surplus crops. After professional harvest there remains a substantial amount of food left in a field. The Food Bank organized the gleaning program two years ago in an effort to retrieve what food remains and to utilize the food to help the people that come to the Food Bank for food assistance.

What food is gleaned reaches throughout the county to those in need—to the homebound senior citizen, the migrant farm worker, and to the homeless.

Please call 372-7843 from Monterey. Your help is needed.

VENTANA, JEKEL TOP LIST OF WINNERS IN FOURTH ANNUAL GUESTLIFE MONTEREY WINE TASTING AWARDS

The Ventana and Jekel vineyards shared top honors in GuestLife magazine's Fourth Annual Monterey County Food & Wine Tasting & Awards benefitting Meals on Wheels of the Monterey Peninsula held at the Monterey Sheraton Hotel April 1.

Ventana took gold awards in the Reisling and Chardonnay categories (1985 vintages in both categories); Jekel took gold awards for its 1983 Cabernet Sauvignon and 1985 Reisling. Other gold award winners included Roudon-Smith, Smith & Hook and Monterey Peninsula for their cabernets.

Silver awards went to Monterey Vineyard, Wolfe, Durney and Mirassou for reislings; Durney, Chateau Julien and Ventana for cabernets; and Mirassou, Morgan, Chateau Julien, Jekel, San Martin, Boyer, and La Reina for chardonnays.

The only regional competition for vintners in the Monterey County area, the GuestLife awards are presented by Desert Publications Inc., publisher of the hardbound GuestLife hotel room magazines in Orange County and New Mexico. The High pressure common to men

According to the American Heart Association, high blood pressure is particularly prevalent in middle-aged and elderly people, blacks, obese people, heavy drinkers, women who take oral contraceptives, and people with diabetes mellitus, gout or kidney disease. High blood pressure is also more prevalent among men than women.

Heart disease takes high toll

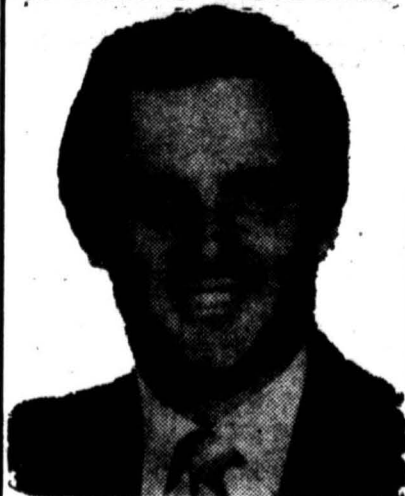

In 1987 the economic cost of cardiovascular disease will total $85.2 billion, the American Heart Association estimates. This figure includes physician and nursing home costs, medications and lost occupational output as a result of disability.

REAL ESTATE TODAY

Preparing To Buy

By Jayde Thompson

Are there ways you can make the process of buying a home easier for yourself...even long before you start looking?

Absolutely!

The single most important thing you can do is have a meeting with the members of your family. This is a meeting where everyone gets to bring up every thought, hope and worry they have about the new home. Its size, location, style. How long you may live there. The possibility that you may have to move before you thought you would. And on and on.

The clearer the idea you have of what you want in a home, the faster and easier and more satisfying the process of finding it!

It's an investment of family time that will pay off in incredible dividends.

Similarly, you can sit down with your financial records — records of income and of debt — and look at what a lender will be looking at when you apply for a mortgage. Get some help in preparing your financial picture for the lender's eyes. Among other things, you may want to get a copy of the credit record the lender will be ordering (and I can help with this).

Preparation pays! For expert assistance, call me, Jayde Thompson, your Carmel specialist at Real Estate By The Sea at 624-1444 or stop by my office at San Carlos and Seventh.

Carmel residents asked to choose phone companies

Carmel telephone customers with prefixes 624, 625, and 626 are getting the opportunity to choose among six long distance companies, under Pacific Bell's Easy Access program, according to Jim Bower, area manager for Pacific Bell.

15,105 business and residence customers in the community will soon receive Easy Access "ballots" in the mail, asking them to choose a long distance company by May 27. Customers will be hooked in to the company of their choice on June 27, 1987.

On the Monterey Peninsula, telephone customers in Monterey, Pacific Grove and parts of Pebble Beach were converted to Easy Access in June 1985. Seaside was converted last January. All Salinas customers will be converted by mid-1987. Marina and Big Sur are not currently scheduled.

In Carmel, customers are being asked to choose one of the following: American Express Expressphone, AT&T Long Distance, City Phone, MCI, or GTE Sprint. Business customers may also choose Western Union Long Distance Services.

To choose a company, customers may simply check the appropriate box on their ballot and mail back the self-addressed, stamped card to Pacific Bell. However, customers who wish to choose American Express Expressphone or City Phone should call either of these two carriers directly since both companies are not listed on the ballot.

"Once a customer chooses a long distance company, he or she will be able to access that company's services, simply by dialing '1' plus the area code (if outside 408) and the number," said Bower.

"And with Easy Access, our customers can use any of the six long distance companies serving their area, as well. All they need to do is dial a five-digit 'company code' first," he added. The company codes are listed in the Easy Access ballot package. (Some companies require you to open an account with them prior to using their services.)

There is no fee for making your Easy Access choice if the selection is made prior to May 27, or within six months after that date.

Judging was by "blind critical tasting," according to Stan Jones, executive director of the California Food & Wine Commission and wine & spirits editor for Desert Publications Inc.

Approximately 850 persons -- including Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood -- attended the event, raising upwards of $11,000 for Meals on Wheels, an organization providing hot meals to shut-ins throughout the Monterey Peninsula area.

SENIORS OFFERED FREE ENTRY

On Saturday, May 9, the Old Monterey Preservation Society and Monterey State Historic Parks are honoring senior citizens by offering free entry to local historic park buildings and adobes. These include Casa Soberanes, Larkin House, the Old Custom House, Stevenson House, Pacific House, and the Cooper-Molera Adobe, all of which will be on their regular Saturday schedules.

Members of the Old Monterey Preservation Society will welcome visitors with coffee, punch and cookies served in the Skylight Room of the Cooper-Molera Adobe at Polk and Alvarado streets from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For information call Lillian Rasmussen at 625-0311.

CARMEL VALLEY GEM & MINERAL SOCIETY MEETING MAY 8

The Carmel Valley Gem and Mineral Society will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 8, at the Community Room, Crossroads Shopping Center, Carmel. Dr. Bill Gilly of Hopkins Marine Station will speak about the evolution of fossils. Visitors and guests are always welcome. Refreshments will be served.

AMY PLOMTEAUX, 17, of Carmel, with her horse "Covertime," participated in the Monterey Spring Horse Show, April 9-12, winning Reserve Show Champion in Childrens Hunters 17 and under and a first place in Childrens Hunters Under Saddle 17 and under. From Monterey she travelled to the Kern County Fair Horse Show Classic in Bakersfield where she won Show Champion in Childrens Hunters 15-17, first place in Childrens Hunters Under Saddle 15-17 and third place in Open Pleasure. At both shows "Covertime" was undefeated in every Childrens Under Saddle event entered. Plomteaux rides at Windy Ridge in Carmel Valley and is trained by Marie and Riley Wilson.

CARMEL COUPLE PRESENTS GIFT OF LAND TO WASHINGTON COLLEGE

A Carmel couple, Ben G. and Virginia Stone, have presented a gift of 111 acres of industrial land in Spokane, Wash., to Stone's alma mater, Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash. The property has been appraised at a value of $500,000.

Stone formerly lived in Spokane, where he was president and manager of the SCAFCO Corporation (Spokane Culvert and Fabricating Company) from 1954 to 1981, when he retired. He also was affiliated with other Spokane businesses, including American Agri-Products and SCAFCO's Pacific Truck Equipment Division. He is a past president of the National Corrugated Steel Pipe Association and of American Industrial Manufacturers, Inc.

A native of Walla Walla, Stone graduated in 1936 from Whitman, a nondenominational and coeducational liberal arts and sciences college of 1,100 students which is noted for its rigorous academic tradition. Stone's two sons, Ben G. Stone, Jr., and Lawrence Stone, also are Whitman graduates.

Stone has been a member of the Whitman College Board of Overseers since 1981 and, in 1986, led a drive among members of the Whitman class of 1936 to raise $400,000 for the college as a 50-year reunion gift.

WESTERNERS PROGRAM TO FEATURE ANITA ARELLANO

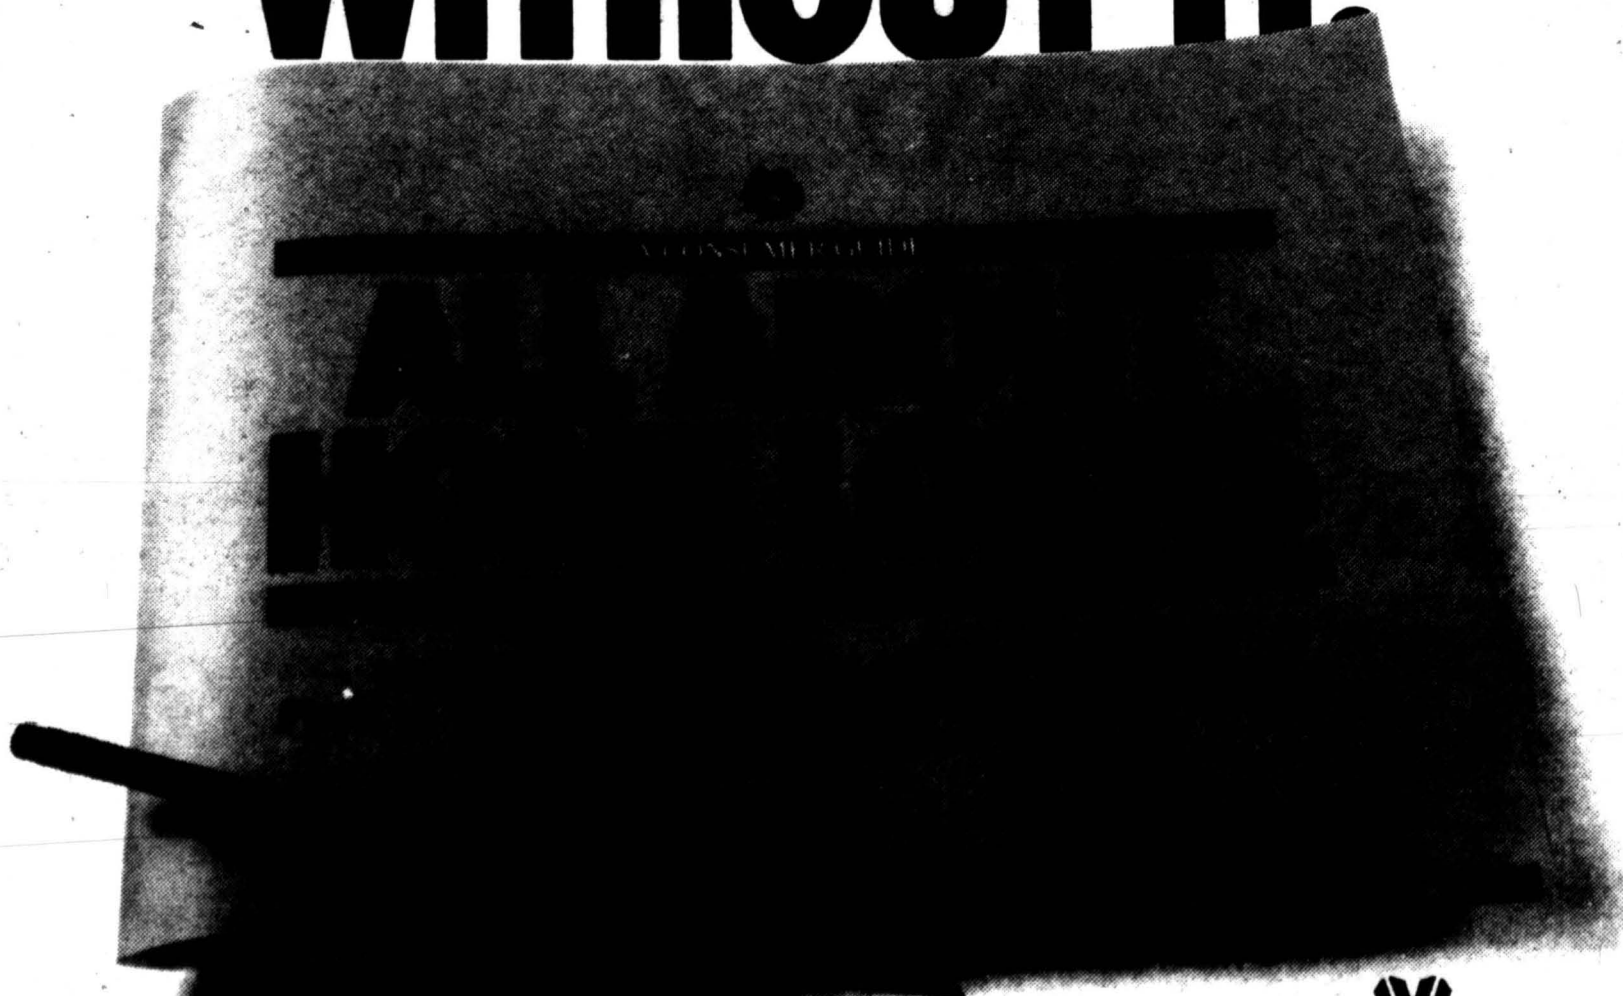

"The Taking of California" will be the subject of the next meeting of the Monterey County Corral of Westerners. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, May 11, at St. John's Parish Hall in Monterey. The program is free and is open to the public.

Anita Arellano has taught at Monterey Peninsula College since 1965, and she has been practicing law since 1981. She has ELISA NENCINI, 17, of Carmel Valley, riding her horse "Billy Idol" was undefeated in Junior Under Saddle classes at the Monterey Spring Horse Show, April 9-12. With her other horse "Vesuvio," she won Show Champion in Modified Junior Amateur Jumpers and the Nor Cal Junior Medal. At the Kern County Fair Horse Show Classic, April 14-19, Nencini and "Vesuvio" won first place in Junior Jumpers and first place in Junior Amateur Modified Jumpers. She rides and trains with Marie and Riley Wilson of Carmel Valley.

WHALES WERE ALMOST EXTINCT

The gray whales which annually migrate 10,000 miles from the Arctic to Baja California, past the shores of the Monterey Peninsula, were nearly extinct 30 years ago. Since they have become a totally protected species, estimates on the herd's total now range from 12,000 to 15,000.

CHAMBER ANNOUNCES

SMALL BUSINESS AWARDS FINALISTS

The Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce has chosen 11 finalists for the Small Business Awards for Excellence, part of the chamber's salute to local businesses during Small Business Week, May 10 to 16.

Distributed among three categories, the finalists include Cypress Tree Inn, Surdi's, Pablo's and First Watch in the lodging/restaurant category; California Contemporaries, Country Home Care, Harbor Real Estate, and Musgrave and Friends in the professional/service category; and Chateau Julien Winery, Designer Collections, and Brinton's in the retail/industrial category.

These finalists will be honored and a winner chosen from each category as well as an overall winner at the first-ever Small Business Awards Banquet on Monday, May 11 at the Hyatt Regency Ballroom. Nominations for the awards were solicited from the community at large.

Open to both chamber members and non-members, the awards banquet is a means of honoring the outstanding small businesses in the area. In fact, in Monterey County 79 percent of the businesses employ four persons or less and employ 50 percent of the work force.

Reservations for the Small Business Award Banquet can be made by calling the Monterey Peninsula Chamber at 649-1770.

PG&E WAS PROVIDING CUSTOMERS WITH ELECTRICITY EVEN BEFORE EDISON PATENTED HIS LIGHT BULB.

The first power station in the world was the forerunner of PG&E's electric service. In 1879, it was running carbon arc lights, months before Thomas Edison patented the incandescent light bulb.

Today, PG&E serves hundreds of California communities with dozens of different power plants. By using different sources of electricity, we can combine the most economical to hold down costs.

More importantly, we can continue to give all our customers the same attention we gave the very first ones.

SPANNING THE YEARS

AN OFFICIAL LIGHTER OF THE GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

CARMEL YOUTH BASEBALL

BY MARY PARSONS

All tied up

DEREK RAYNE and Pine Inn faced off on April 27 in a cliffhanger game which finally ended in a 16-16 tie. Each team had its share of thrills, including not only great batting but also some terrific catches.

Highlights include: a double play by Melicia, Abram DeAnda and Damien Griss (DR); spectacular catches by PI right fielders Adam Chaplan and Parsegh Oksayan; and DR centerfielder Matt Miller's great fielding of a two-out, bases-loaded hit that looked destined to be a home run.

Top hitting honors belong to DR's Melicia (3-for-4 with four runs scored) and Alex Fremier (3-for-4 with 2 RBI); and PI's Ranson Masliyah (3-for-5 with 4 RBI) and Cory Lauterbach (2-for-3 with 4 RBI). Also tough were hitters Brophy and Billy Hall (PI) and Griss, DeAnda and Steve Biliouris (DR).

La Playa beat Carmel Valley Disposal 17-4 in five innings on April 28. Tim Wiesner (LP) became the third Bronco player this season to blast one out of the park and led his team in hits (3-for-4). LP's Willie Moore and Matt Travaille and CVD players Jeremy Byrd and Jimmy Gill also hit well. LP fielder Steven Garrett contributed a great catch to the win.

On May 2, La Playa collected nine runs in the first two innings and went on to beat Derek Rayne 10-8. Home runs were hit by Willie Moore (LP) and Steve Biliouris (DR); Biliouris was 3-for-3 in the game. Also hitting well were Matt Travaille and Jeremy Smith (LP), Alex Fremier and Jon Tedrow (DR). Adam Conway, in his pitching debut, did a good job in the final inning for the winners.

Also on May 2, Pine Inn beat Carmel Valley Disposal 18-8 in five innings; in the second inning, every batter in the Pine Inn lineup scored. PI's Ranson Masliyah (4-for-4) was top batter; teammates Cory Lauterbach, Billy Hall, Josh Bonifas and Brian Sarkin were also hot. Leading CVD hitters: Jimmy Gill, Bryant Pearson and Chris Johnson.

In Mustang play, Yates, Downer, Dyer and Kirkpatrick took a 6-5 win over County Mounties on April 27. Infielders Chris Brandt and Cooper Scollan and catcher Chip Dorey showed skill in several plays for the winner. Leading hitters were Paul Huntington (CM) and Brendan Allen (YDDK).

Dick Bruhn defeated Carmel Realtors 8-1 on April 28. Amir Masliyah (DB) hit a beautiful inside-the-park home run; also hitting well were teammates Michael Palshaw and Chris Chatham and CR's Matt Heinrich. The game also featured fine pitching by Brent Sullivan (DB) and an outstanding throw to the plate by DB centerfielder Robbie Nakamura.

On April 30, Books, Inc. beat Dick Bruhn 5-2. Top hitters for the winners were Channing Griggs and Jon Geisler.

This week's featured Pinto team is Carmel Bay Company, with players Chelsea Allen, Ben Armbrust, Ryan Bailey, Robby Blagg, Jamille Griss, David Keeble, Courtney Mayer, Erin Miller, Trent Nishiguchi, Morgan Rogers, Jacob Silver and Damon Rutherford.

Minor Softball: Carmel Phillies beat PG Wolfpack 12-3 on April 22. Leading hitters: Leilani Seltzer (3-for-3) and Melissa Hill (2-for-3); also hot were teammates Allison Bohnen and Tiffani Meheen.

On April 24, Em Le's beat the PG Red Devils 14-4. Luna Suh, in her catching debut, was voted outstanding player; teammate Andrea Greco hit a home run for the winners. Top Carmel hitters: Samantha Hisey, Amy Lincoln (both 3-for-4), Jamie Farrow and Luna Suh.

Also on April 24, the Phillies beat Carmel Plaza 20-14. First-time pitcher Leilani Seltzer also batted 4-for-4. Leading Phillies hitters: Allison Bohnen (4-for-4), Tiffani Meheen, Stacey Gray and Melissa Hill; Amy Gray and Rachel Smith also hit well. Danielle Bailey and Erin Murray were top batters for the Plaza.

Em Le's beat the Phillies 16-6, on April 25 in a game featuring good hitting by the winners. Em Le's Gillian Brown struck out five batters in her pitching debut.

The Phillies fell to Em Le's again, 15-8, on May 1. Home runs: Samantha Hisey (EL) and Tiffani Meheen (P). Leading hitters: Em Le's Amy Lincoln and Molly Pettit (both 3-for-3), Hisey, and Tony Greco; and Phillies' Allison Bohnen, Leilani Seltzer, Melissa Hill and Meheen.

Major Softball: County Bank and Trust lost 11-5 to the Monterey Cardinals April 29, despite a home run by Julie DeRuosi and good fielding by Shelly Smith (who also pitched) and Tiffany Tilney.

Seniors receive free park entry

On Saturday, May 9, the Old Monterey Preservation Society and Monterey State Historic Parks will honor senior citizens by offering free entry to local historic park buildings and adobes.

These include Casa Soberanes, Larkin House, the Old Custom House, Stevenson House, Pacific House, the Cooper-Molera Adobe, all of which will be on their regular Saturday schedules.

BUSINESS BEAT

By Nancy Hills

This'll be interesting

HERE I am. And just when you thought it was safe to open a Carmel Pine Cone again.

Oh what fun those little ins and outs of the business community continue to be, and summer is just around the corner when things really start heating up.

It could get hot. I have a friend that overheard a conversation between two people while walking down the street.

The gentlemen walking in front of him were discussing food franchises. In particular, how to "bust" the food franchise ban in Carmel. Since my friend is not a reporter, the specifics of the conversation were not absorbed, but basically, he said they talked about how a franchise could make a fortune here in Carmel, and all one had to do was open one in town.

Of course, this is nothing new. I have no doubt, nor does anyone else I talk to, that the major fast food companies would love to plant their flags here. Just think of all those hordes of people flowing up and down Ocean Avenue, filing through one's business and past the cash register.

WHICH OF COURSE...

Brings to mind a rather substantial rumor that Mrs. Fields, the cookie company (and national franchise), is buying The Cookie Place on Ocean Avenue.

What this portends is not clear. Do they plan to run it as a Mrs. Field's? Can they run it as a Mrs. Field's? If they don't use their name but have the same exact operation as in other Mrs. Field's around the country, will it be considered a chain operation?

Stay tuned for how the cookie will crumble on this one.

NEW GALLERY

Bennett Sculpture has closed its annex on San Carlos Street in Cottage Row but Dyansen Gallery of Carmel didn't let the space linger unoccupied for long.

This company produces the collections of sculptors Romain de Tirtoff (known to the artworld as Erte), Angelo Basso and Paul Wegner.

Karen Fullerton, a Dyansen representative, explained that Dyansen casts the limited edition metal works for the artists which are sold in the company's 10 nationwide galleries.

The gallery also offers paintings as well.

Bennett Sculpture is continuing its operation in Carmel Plaza.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

By Henrietta Stern

Tit for tat

IT'S A fact of life that a secure water supply comes with some cost. One of the inevitable effects of any New San Clemente Reservoir would be the inundation of 200-300 acres of wildlife habitat.

As the reservoir waters slowly rise for the first time, various birds and four-legged beasts would be forced to bid their homes adieu and move to higher ground. Luckily, the reservoir would fill in winter, before the spring nesting or birthing season shared by many species.

Wildlife biologists have assured me that very few (if any) animals would drown due to the rising reservoir waters. However, these "refugees" would need to find new homes in adjacent areas, and could crowd the existing inhabitants. It's sort of like cousin Bessie and her brood moving in after a flood wiped out her home. Things may be a little stressful as the newcomers fit themselves into the community pecking order, establish their territories (Bessie always was so pushy!), and obtain their share of the available food resources. Depending on the quality and quantity of the available habitat as well as the number of animals exploiting it, the effect of this influx on the overall population health could range from minor to significant.

That's where the concept of "off-site mitigations" comes in. State and federal agencies responsible for wildlife protection require that project proponents like the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District must consider ways to avoid, minimize or compensate for the loss on environmental resources.

Specifically, we must develop a formal "mitigation plan" that will compensate for the loss of wildlife habitat due to inundation by the proposed dam or by various construction activities. Simply put, it's a bit like "tit for tat" - destruction of habitat in one area must be compensated by enhancement of the same type of habitat somewhere else. The tricky part is determining how much compensation is enough. That's where the professional biologists come in.

MITIGATION PLAN

District staff and consultants recently met with wildlife biologists from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS), the California Department of Fish and Game (CDFG), and the Army Corps of Engineers to initiate work on a mitigation plan. These biologists toured the proposed dam site, developed lists of indicator species, and inspected potential mitigation project sites. They also suggested some good ideas on the types of mitigation activities that would be most beneficial. We also discussed the possibility of performing a Habitat Evaluation Procedure (HEP), which is a formal process used to quantify and compare project impacts and enhancement benefits.

Several types of habitat would be impacted by the proposed reservoir: instream (aquatic), riparian (streamside vegetation like cottonwoods and willows), estuarine wetland (the lagoon at the mouth of the Carmel River) and upland (hillside vegetation like oaks, madrones, and chaparral). Instream, riparian and estuarine habitat is considered more valuable than upland habitat as limited acreage remains in California.

ENHANCEMENT EFFORTS

The agencies agreed that mitigation for instream habitat would not be included in the mitigation plan. This issue is being handled separately and in detail through the water rights process.

Riparian efforts will focus on planting cottonwoods, willows, alders and other species in the appropriate densities along river terraces to create a fine riparian habitat in denuded or sparse areas. Continuation of the Carmel River Management Program past its 1993 termination date is also considered. This program focus on erosion-control plantings within the streambed or on river banks.

Irrigation will be necessary to help get the plants established, or during dry years when water table levels drop. Potential sites include Garland Ranch (so we can all benefit), Tularcitos Creek, the Trail and Saddle Club and others. Of course, permission must first be granted from landowners. As the increased flows with the project should beneficially affect the lagoon, no specific mitigation actions are planned presently.

Because there are thousands of acres of upland habitat already in the Carmel Valley watershed, mitigation would not entail planting more! Purchase of private land to donate to an agency like the U.S. Forest Service is the most common method of mitigation for the lower value upland habitat. We're presently investigating some promising parcels.

These mitigation projects could cost more than $1 million, which is not cheap. However, mitigation is a relatively small part of the total project costs (roughly $50 million). More importantly, it is required by law.

Museum sponsors luxury train ride

A trip aboard the luxurious "Virginia City," the opulent private railroad car owned by the late Lucius Beebe, is planned by the Jestes, the auxiliary of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

On Friday, May 15, 16 passengers will board the "Virginia City" and travel down the scenic Southern Pacific coastal line to Glendale. The railroad car is fully staffed with a chef and steward and all meals and cocktails will be included in the journey.

Upon arrival in Glendale, the travelers will be transferred to the Pasadena Embassy Suites Hotel for a two-night stay and on Saturday the participants will visit the Huntington Library and the Wrigley Mansion. The return trip on Sunday will again be on the same private car.

For information about this excursion, call Car van der Burch, 372-1069; or Jody Dowdry, 624-1501.

Service to community

RECENTLY CARMEL High School held its second Awareness Day. The goal of the day was to focus on issues facing students today, such as chemical dependency and/or its use, self esteem, values clarification, stress and AIDS.

The day was a tremendous success, but it could not have been possible if it were not for the professionals within the community who volunteered their time and expertise. Thirty-eight presentors offered over 70 workshops throughout the day. I would like to take this opportunity to thank them publicly. They have done a tremendous service to the high school and our community. Thank you!

Sincerely,

Fire danger higher this year

Fire season 1987 could be a bad one if early indications are correct.

The rainfall this year was about half of normal and the native vegetation is at critically low live-fuel moisture for this time of year. This means that when the grasses dry out, as they are now doing, the fire season will start at a fire danger level not normally experienced until late July or August.

While the potential is there for a severe fire season, weather is still an important part of any fire season. If the summer and fall are hot and dry the fire danger will be very high. If the summer and fall stay warm and more humid the fire danger will not be as critical. The problem is the weather during the summer tends to be hot and dry and we can plan on at least a few critical days.

The time to prepare for the coming season is now not when the fire is threatening. Rural homeowners are urged to clear around the house and other buildings for at least 30 feet. All flammable vegetation should be removed from this area. This does not include ornamental shrubs and other landscaping plants.

OBITUARIES

Helen C. Bickford

Burial took place at El Carmelo Cemetery in Pacific Grove for Helen C. Bickford, a former Carmel Valley and Pacific Grove resident, who died April 16 in Show Low, Ariz. She was 73.

Born Oct. 27, 1913 in Fort Mead, S.D., she came to the Monterey Peninsula as a small child. She was employed as a housekeeper and babysitter in the area until 1975, when she moved to Arizona.

Survivors include her husband, Ellery; a niece, Marsha Engle of Marina; and one grandniece.

At her request, no service took place.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Born Jan. 19, 1925 in Londonderry, Northern Ireland, she came to the United States on the Queen Mary after World War II as a war bride.

Mrs. Bruce, known as "Twig," moved to the peninsula from Menlo Park in 1963, making her home in Pebble Beach and later in Carmel.

Survivors include her husband, Henry Clark Bruce; a son, Steve Shudoma of Huntington Beach; a daughter, Wendy Just of Westwood; and a sister, Christina Burrows of Gloucester, England.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Carmel Fire Department, P.O. Box 6418, Carmel 93921.

Jeffrey A. Jones

Private family services took place April 16 in the El Estero Chapel of Mission Mortuary, for Jeffrey A. Jones of Monterey, a former resident of Carmel Valley, who died April 16 in Carmel. He was 30.

Born June 1, 1956 in Santa Monica, he attended Tulare School, Carmel Middle School and Carmel High.

Survivors include his mother, Marilyn J. Jones of Carmel Valley; his father, W. Montgomery Jones of Monterey, and an aunt, Dorothy Jares of Carmel Valley.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of funeral arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Ethna M. Bruce

A memorial service took place April 18 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Ethna Moira Bruce of Carmel, who died April 16 at Community Hospital. She was 62.

Elizabeth Bruchholz

A memorial service took place April 22 at the Carmel Presbyterian Church for Elizabeth Ware Bruchholz, who died April 17 at Carmel Valley Manor. She was 97.

Born Jan. 24, 1890 in Minneapolis, she graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1911 from the University of Minnesota. She and her late husband, Henry, a bank executive and former Rhodes scholar, lived in Minneapolis until they retired to Carmel Point in 1951.

Her interests included the Washington International School, the World Affairs Council, League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula and the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include three daughters, Dorothy B. Goodman of Washington, Mary B. Strauss of Oakland and Elizabeth B. Haigh of Rochester, N.Y., nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the national board of the YWCA, 600 Lexington Ave., N.Y., or the Blind Service Center of Pacific Grove.

Florence W. Moore

Cremation, under direction of the California Cremation Society, took place for Florence W. Moore of Carmel, who died April 27 at her home. She was 79.

Born Aug. 22, 1907 in Fort Leavenworth, Kan., she moved to the Monterey area as a child and attended Monterey schools.

She retired after many years as office manager of R.O. Summers Plumbing Co. and also had various business interests and holdings in the Lake Tahoe and Reno areas.

She was a longtime member of the Monterey chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star and the American Association of Retired Persons.

Survivors include a sister, Hannah Nelson of San Jose; a nephew and two nieces.

At her request, no services were planned.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Marie E. Davies

Memorial services took place April 27 at Carmel Presbyterian Church for Marie Eisenlohr Davies of Pebble Beach, who died April 22 at Community Hospital. She was 80.

Born Aug. 21, 1906 in Indianapolis, she was a graduate of Tudor Hall School for Girls in Indianapolis and Oaksmead School in Mirameck, N.Y. She was active in the Junior League and Riley Children's Hospital, and a founding member of the Traders Point Hunt in Indianapolis.

Her first husband of 19 years, William Wemmer, died in 1949. She married Philip Sherwood Davies of San Francisco in 1952 and moved to Pebble Beach, where she continued her interests in equestrian and civic activities.

She was a joint master of the Los Altos Hunt with the late Richard Collins of Pebble Beach and was a district commissioner for the U.S. Pony Clubs of America for 16 years.

She was a past president of the Casa Abrego Club of Monterey and served on the boards of the Monterey County Symphony Guild, the Embroiders Guild of the United States, the U.S. Equestrian Team and Guide Dogs for the Blind, and was a member of other civic and charitable organizations.

Survivors include a brother, Otto Eisenlohr of Pauma Valley; two daughters, Mrs. Hildegard W. Mitchell of Pebble Beach and Gretchen W. Peed of Hickory, N.C.; 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea under direction of the Paul Mortuary.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Russel C. Carpenter

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Russel Carl Carpenter of Carmel, who died April 25 at his home. He was 79.

Born Nov. 4, 1907 in Attleboro, Mass., he graduated cum laude from Harvard College in 1929, was a graduate of the Art Students' League of New York, and studied in Paris with the artist Fernand Leger.

He served as a captain with U.S. Army Intelligence and Liaison in Europe during World War II, and was decorated by Great Britain with the Order of the British Empire, by France with the Croix de Guerre, and by Italy with the Order of the Crown of Italy.

He worked in design and advertising in New York and Boston with his partner, Asley Hougren, until his retirement to Carmel in 1972.

Survivors include two nieces and two nephews.

At his request, no services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Inurnment was scheduled to take place at a later date in Attleboro, Mass.

Phyllis Hart

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, for Phyllis Hart of Carmel Valley, who died April 26 at Pacific Grove Convalescent Hospital. She was 72.

Born Nov. 5, 1914 in Los Angeles, she had lived in Carmel and Carmel Valley for a total of 45 years and was a homemaker.

Survivors include a brother, Ken Reichard of Corte Madera; two nieces, a nephew and a grandnephew. A sister, Sally Reichard, died in March 1986, and her mother, Ada Reichard, who was active in the Republican Party in Monterey County, died in 1979.

At her request, no services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Blind Service Center, 225 Laurel Ave., Pacific Grove, or to the Marin Wildlife Center in San Rafael.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Another of the many myths about growing older has been shattered: people don't necessarily become hypochondriacs as they age. According to a 10-year followup study of 900 men by the National Institute on Aging's Gerontology Research Center, hypochondriacs are just as likely to be younger people as older ones. The federal government's aging experts said that most of the elderly people who make excessive or exaggerated complaints about their health had been complaining all their lives.

According to the President's Council of Economic Advisors, the graying of America is the most significant demographic change that will face U.S. society in the next 50 years. "Every American and every facet of society will be affected," they say. Some 30 years from now, when the oldest members of the "baby boom" retire, the nation as a whole will have the same proportion of older citizens as the state of Florida does now — 17.5 percent.

Remember When? September 16, 1954 — The American League approved the shift of the St. Louis Browns to Baltimore, where they would begin the following season as the Orioles.

Chaplaincy skills to be taught in free course

A continuing need for chaplains in hospitals, nursing homes, prisons and other institutions, as well as demand for greater expertise in personal counseling, has led to the fourth annual West Valley Chaplaincy Training Course which begins on Monday, May 11 at the Seaside Assembly of God at 7 p.m.

The West Valley Chaplaincy Training began several years ago in Los Gatos and is now nationwide. Graduates of the 10-week course receive a certificate which opens the door to personal work in many institutions. Graduates of earlier Seaside programs are now at work in local hospitals and nursing homes.

Paul Lynch, executive director of the program, will be the teacher. The course is free but offerings to cover expenses are accepted. The church is located at 1184 Hilby Avenue in Seaside. For further information, call Zella Pfitzer, 899-4124.

HOW CARMELITES SAW IN DARK

While Carmel still has few street lights outside the business district, there were none at all in the early days. Residents out at night used to find their way with a peculiarly local lantern made of a punctured soup can with a candle fastened inside.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Check the mirror

CARMEL ROTARY, LA PLAYA HOTEL

May 5, 1983 The Carmel Pine Cone/CV Outlook

Philosophers list the human traits, or as the British say, "trays" which sour human relations. However, in the average man's book, the characteristics which cause the most annoyance (President Reagan says that give us a pain in the keester) are complaining, grouching, belly-aching, the "gloomy gus" syndrome.

We are weather experts. We report on dark clouds without silver linings. We broadcast every man's worst qualities. We denigrate their good ones. Our conversations are full of spite for everyone and everything. We tell the world about our ailments, aches, pains and our hurt feelings.

We delight in spotting wrongs — real and imaginary. We glory in reporting them endlessly. Obviously this demands a drastic cure. Every day we should check our mirror because chronic complaining leaves its mark; the perpetual frown, the cold eye, the tight lip, the turned-down mouth and the bilious color.

Oh Lord, help us be kind in word, in deed, in thought. Feed us on the wholesome bread of Thy Love, not on the crumbs of bitterness and gossip. If we are tempted to eat the cake of criticism give us the treatment recorded on the pub sign in Kent: the Silent Woman, who walks the bloody tower with her head tucked underneath her arm. Amen.

Veterans given employment help

Vietnam era veterans and 30 percent disabled veterans who are interested in federal employment are now helped by the Centralized Applicant Referral Service (CARS) at Fort Ord. The CARS office will assist veterans in the completion of the Standard Form 171 for federal employment.

The CARS office will schedule veterans on a first-come, first-served basis. Classes are conducted 1 to 4 p.m. each Friday at Fort Ord. To sign up, call 649-7123.

CARMEL VOICE

By Sam Salerno

New jag

TODAY'S THE "Open House" for a select few for the showing of the new XJ-6 sedan Jaguar. It is the unveiling of the first all-new Jaguar sedan in 20 years. Owner James Willingham of Monterey Jaguar and General Sales Manager George Mahi are ecstatic about this new car. The new XJ-6 represents eight years of meticulous planning, designing and engineering. It's the best Great Britain can offer in a car of the future. It's a beauty, hope you'll check it out.

THE BEAR FACTS

Adrienne Gilmore, writer in town recently to do a story about women who graduated from Cal Berkeley in the '30s. She informs me there are quite a few who reside in our area. She'll send me a copy when the story is completed.

DECATHALON CHAMP IN TOWN

Mike Montana and Dr. Don Hayes seen with Bruce Jenner, Olympic champion, at Carmel Valley Ranch. My money is on Mike (a southpaw) who hits it long and has the "bug" for golf. His handicap is dropping by the month. Mike has four shops in Carmel, the main one being JJ's on Ocean Avenue. Mike recently became a member of Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club. Jenner, incidentally, was in town to race at Laguna Seca.

FROM CARMEL VALLEY TO JERSEY

Glenn Mickey who spent time as a youth in South America and later lived in Carmel Valley as a caretaker, is now with the Inter-American Safety Council in Englewood, N.J. Ran into him at Spyglass Hill with his wife and new son. Seems he was waiting for John Powers, RLS Latin and English instructor to tee it up. Nice to see Glenn after such a long time. He was the golfer who was seen at Rancho accompanied by his German Shepherd dog a few seasons back.

LOCAL ARTIST MAKES GOOD

Lisa Bryan, local artist, had La Provence Restaurant jumping with her impressionist painted hats and paintings. One half of her works sold in the first hour of the showing. Lisa's warm and softly rendered paintings of Carmel and watercolors were quite popular at the show. Lisa, usually known for her powerful equestrian paintings, surprised everyone with the charming variety of subjects, color and painted hats. Eighty to 100 showed up with wine generously served by Monterey Peninsula Winery and La Reina Chardonnay. The Chrietzbergs were on hand as were friends and collectors, including Henry Weinberg, Peter Bedrossian, Russ Harris, Roberto Lupetti, Shell Fisher, and many other faithful customers of La Provence in Pacific Grove.

THIS PARTY WAS NO QUACK

That was quite a party for Lyle Quock, former market owner in Carmel at the Chinese Village last Saturday in Seaside. Lyle's wife, Meja was the instigator for this festive occasion. It was a seven-course meal with duck, wild boar, shrimp, rice, and other Chinese delicacies. The delightful surprise for me was sitting with the Kuwantani family including "Mama San" Kuwatani, who is 86 years young. Hadn't seen George, Jimmy, Hank and his sister Jaeko Kuwantani in years. Meja's daughters from Santa Clara helped in the festivities as did their son Daniel. Dr. Ken Hall made the party too. Lyle was disappointed that His Honor, Clint, was not on hand. Seems they are old buddies.

WEDDING BELLS ARE BREAKING UP THAT GANG

Mayor Morris Fisher, seen at the wedding of Daniel and Debbie Beck of Pacific Grove. The wedding took place at Rancho Canada and more than 400 were in attendance, including disc jockey, Johnny Adams. Ever read his license plate? It reads "1 JAZZ DJ." How do you like them apples? The Becks will spend their honeymoon in Mexico.

Nice we could get together again!

Bach Festival Spring Salon planned

In anticipation of the 50th Season Golden Jubilee, the Carmel Bach Festival Associates will conduct their Spring Salon at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 17 at the Highlands Inn.

Clifford (Kip) Cranna will present a lecture-recital entitled, "Mozart's 'The Magic Flute,' from the Silly to the Sublime." Dr. Cranna will be joined by a singer from the San Francisco Opera to help illustrate his points. The Carmel Bach Festival will present a staged production of The Magic Flute during the summer season.

The lecture-recital will be followed by a reception and high tea with Maestro and Mrs. Sandor Salgo.

Admission is $25, with proceeds to benefit the Carmel Bach Festival. Tickets can be purchased at the Carmel Bach Festival Office at Sunset Center in Carmel.

The Carmel Bach Festival Associates, a member support group of the Carmel Bach Festival, was founded in 1984 with the purpose of generating a year-round presence in the community for the summer festival. New members are welcome.

Brunch a peninsula tradition

It's not without reason that brunch has become such a popular pastime on the Monterey Peninsula. Many of the area's finest restaurants boast patios for outdoor dining and striking views of Monterey Bay that can only be enjoyed fully during the day.

The Spyglass at La Playa in La Playa Hotel, Camino Real at Eighth, Carmel, serves Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Begin with a buffet of fresh juice, fresh fruit, mini-bagels, whipped salmon mousse, cheeses and the chef's own pastries.

Entrees are then served at your table. Some of the specialties include puffed fruit pancakes, fritatas or egg entrees. Brunch is priced from $9.50 to $14.25 per person and may be enjoyed in the Ocean-View Poseidon Room and adjoining terrace. Call 624-4010.

Enjoy Sunday brunch overlooking the lovely courtyard at Anton & Michel, on Mission between Ocean and Seventh in Carmel. A complete brunch with a set menu is $11.50 and begins with choice of fresh orange juice, champagne, ramos fizz, mimosa, kir royale, or bloody Mary; fresh fruit cocktail followed by choice of eggs Benedict or Nova Scotia, Spanish omelette, seafood crepes, fettuccine Monterey, avocado shrimp boat, quiche maison, lobster quenelles, fried calamari or chicken chasseur; croissants, butter, jam and marmalade. Coffee, Sanka or tea included. Brunch begins at 10 a.m. and is served until 2 p.m. Call 624-2406.

All you can eat is the rule during the champagne brunch buffet at Surdi's, 2030 Fremont St., Monterey. The feast is served 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. It includes an eight-ounce glass of champagne or orange juice and features a salad bar with more than 25 selections including bay shrimp, pasta salad, fresh fruits, cold meats and cheeses.

Hot buffet specialties offer several main entrees plus fried shrimp, eggs Florentine, quiche Lorraine, baked ham and pizza. To top it off, visit the "all you can eat" dessert buffet with pastries, eclairs and cakes. All of the above costs $8.95; children under 12, $5.45. While there, visit the new cocktail lounge. Call 646-0100.

Domenico's offers a sumptuous brunch and a lovely view of Monterey Bay from 10 a.m. Sunday. $7.95 to $11.95 is the price for a complete brunch featuring delicious egg dishes such as Eggs Benedict, Eggs Sardu, Eggs Monterey, seafood omelette or vegetable frittata. The meal includes a complimentary mimosa, assorted fruit salads, country fried potatoes and fresh muffins. Domenico's is at 50 Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Call 372-3655.

Brunch at The Rogue is served from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Enjoy the beautiful view of the Monterey Yacht Harbor at the marina, Wharf No. 2 in Monterey while dining on fresh seafood specialties, seasonal produce and quality beef.

Try the world-famous chowders, the fresh poached salmon, shrimp tostada, crepes Monterey or create your own omelette. The Rogue also serves fresh fruit juice and fruit in season. Prices range from $3.95 for a complete brunch. Call 372-4586.

Los Laureles Lodge serves Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. (also available daily). Dating back to the early 1830s, the former Rancho Los Laureles is located east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley.

The classic eggs Benedict, omelettes and egg combinations are on the menu from $4.25 to $5.50; also salads from $5.50, a "souper" salad special at $3.50 plus a variety of hot and cold entrees. Imported and domestic beer and house wines (glass or bottle) are served. Call 659-2233.

Sunday brunch with a Mexican accent may be had at Consuelo's in a charming 1886 Victorian house or on the patio. Brunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and includes a glass of champagne. Assorted egg dishes with a traditional Mexican flavor are available, also avocado specialties and tostadas. It's at 361 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey. Call 372-8111.

Indulge early dining whims at these restaurants

Before the theater, before a movie or concert or just because it's been a long day — an early dinner can be the perfect start to the evening or a perfect end to the day.

Many restaurants on the Monterey Peninsula serve full dinners at 4:30 or 5 p.m., and listed here are several that serve early dinner specials.

Katy's Place, on Mission between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel is open daily from 5 p.m. for dinner. The restaurant serves simple, absolutely fresh, home-style American food. The menu includes chicken 'n dumplings, hamburgers made with the leanest chuck, Yankee pot roast and nightly fresh fish specials. Beer and wine are available, and meals can be enjoyed on the outdoor deck. 624-0199.

You can enjoy the flavor thrill of fresh fish prepared on a mesquite wood broiler at the Whaling Station Inn Restaurant on Wave Street one block above Cannery Row. A wide variety of fresh fish, local or flown in, and savory steaks, all cooked on the only open hearth of its kind in the area, are offered. The restaurant serves a varied selection of California and imported wines.

Owner John Pisto uses the freshest, choicest produce to enhance the special entrees. There is free parking and valet parking. Dinner is served nightly from 5 p.m. Call 373-3778 or 373-4248.

For early diners, The Gold Fork on Ocean near Dolores in Carmel offers a golden dining opportunity at special prices from 5 to 6:30 nightly. The Gold Fork is closed Mondays. Continental haute cuisine, including pasta, veal and lamb are served in a luxurious setting, and a full bar is available. 624-2569.

Consuelo's Mexican Restaurant, 361 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey, serves its entire lunch and dinner menu all day. Homemade Mexican food is served in this 1886 Victorian house. Operating hours are 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. weekdays; 'til 10 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Call 372-8111.

The Sardine Factory, the award-winning restaurant at 701 Wave St., Cannery Row serves dinner from 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 2 p.m. on Sunday.

The continental cuisine includes a variety of fresh Eastern and local seafood, veal, pasta specialties, plus steaks, chicken and lamb entrees. An extensive wine list is available. 373-3775.

Local restaurants make it easy to treat Mom

Monterey Peninsula restaurants will make it easy to treat mother on her day, Sunday, May 10. From elegant brunches to dinners fanciful and informal, a variety of meals will be especially themed for Mother's Day.

Sans Souci, Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel, will be open for lunch and dinner on Mother's Day. Lunch, served 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., will offer soup or salad and a choice of two entrees: fresh salmon served with a delicate grapefruit-butter sauce, or chicken breast laced with truffles and a madeira cream sauce.

Dinner will be served from 6 p.m. with last reservations taken for 10 p.m. Begin with a la carte appetizers of oysters on the half-shell, or chicken breast with green herb sauce. Dinner includes soup and salad, and a choice of salmon with delicate grapefruit-butter sauce, or roasted patridge served with wild berries. Dessert will be Grand Marnier cake with strawberries. Reservations are advised. 624-6220.

The Velvet Creamery in Del Monte Center, Monterey, will be open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Mother's Day. The restaurant will be serving from its regular menu that features homemade soups, stew, sandwiches, chili, salads and ice cream. 372-5080.

Swiss Tavern, Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel, will offer a Mother's Day dinner, including a rose for a special lady, from 5 p.m. Entrees include a boneless breast of chicken (Lady M), or large prawns sauteed in garlic with butter and sherry, or fresh Monterey Bay salmon poached in a veal steak and cream sauce. Dinners are priced from $11.50 to $16.50 and include soup and salad. Reservations are advised. 624-5994.

Marie Callender's, 1200 Del Monte Center, Monterey, will be open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. and will be serving their pastries, pot pies, quiches, pasta salads and salad bar. 375-9500.

Surdi's, 2030 Fremont

St., Monterey will serve breakfast from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. For Mother's Day, a rose will be given to all moms. Brunch is served from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and includes a glass of champagne or orange juice and features the antipasto salad bar and fresh fruit bar. The hot buffet table includes eggs Florentine, deep fried shrimp, tortellini in cream sauce with sauteed mushrooms, honey baked ham, Italian-style veal and bell peppers, quiche Lorraine, sauteed Italian green beans, and extra-thick Sicilian pizza.

The dessert buffet table features chocolate eclairs, amaretto mousse pie, walnut layer cake, chocolate brownies, chocolate mousse pie, French petit fours, creamy cheesecake, black forest cake and more. Cost is $11.95 per person with children under 12, $5.95.

Dinner is served from 3:30 p.m. and includes one complimentary glass of champagne, and a rose for all mothers. Specialties include fresh local seafoods, steak and lobster specials from $16.95. 646-0100.

Hammerhead's, 414 Calle Principal, Monterey will serve a special Mother's Day Brunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Entrees include salmon and shrimp Wellington, seafood crepes, barbecued salmon, pork tenderloin or eggs Benedict. Price per person is $10.95 and up. The regular dinner menu will be served from 3 until 10 p.m. Reservations are advised. 373-3116.

Consuelo's Mexican Restaurant, 361 Lighthouse Ave., Monterey, will serve two special seafood dishes at their brunch on Mother's Day: enchiladas de Mariscos (crab and shrimp enchiladas) or Tikin Xic (red snapper marinated and charbroiled, Mayan style, on a banana leaf). Brunch is served from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Full dinner menu is served 11 a.m.-9 p.m. 372-8111.

L' Escargot, Mission and Fourth, Carmel, will serve a Mother's Day brunch/dinner from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Begin with a mixed salad, then choose from one of the following entrees: poached eggs with fresh spinach, and asparagus with bechamel sauce; or baked ham with peaches; or half chicken, roasted, with fresh tarragon sauce; or fresh Monterey Bay salmon poached with beurre blanc and herbs.

There is a choice of dessert and a glass of champagne included and a fresh rose for the lady. The cost is $14.75 per person. For reservations call 624-4914.

La Provence, 105-A Ocean View Blvd., in the American Tin Cannery, Pacific Grove, will serve Mother's Day dinner from 2 p.m. until closing. The meal includes a choice of the following appetizers: avocado and shrimp sauce aurore, pate de Campagne and sour grapes, or cream of chicken soup. Next comes a mixed springtime salad with home made vinaigrette dressing.

Choice of entrees are breast of chicken au Port, with bouquet of vegetables and gratin of potatoes; or roasted leg of lamb with thyme, baked Gilroy garlic, bouquet of vegetable and gratin of potatoes. The choice of dessert is strawberries a la Chantilly or floating island au caramel with vanilla bean sauce, and coffee. The complete dinner is $19.95 and children's portions are available. Brunch will also be served from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. For reservations call 649-0707.

Eight varieties of eggs Benedict, exotic omelettes, pancakes and other favorites make Mother's Day breakfast special at Katy's Place, on Mission between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel. Breakfast and lunch will be served from 7 a.m. until 4 p.m. Dinner is served from 5 to 9 p.m. with a menu featuring fresh fish and other seasonal entrees. Full dinners are priced from $8.95 to $11.95. 624-0199.

Gernot's, 649 Lighthouse in Pacific Grove will serve their regular California cuisine menu including pheasant, venison, breast of duck and fresh fish from 5:30 p.m. on Mother's Day. For reservations, call 646-1477.

Secrets: 2999 Monterey-Salinas Highway, near the airport, Monterey. Brunch will be served from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., on the patio, with Monterey's friendliest champagne list. Prices vary from $5.50 to $10 per person and offer a choice of baby steelhead salmon with eggs; smoked salmon with Russian caviar omelette or apple pancake. Reservations suggested. 373-3411.

A new experience in Thai Cuisine

BANGKOK GARDEN CUISINE — THE ART OF THAI COOKING

Pleasure in food has long been part of the Thai culture, and the secrets of the Thai cuisine have been passed on from generation to generation for centuries. My training in nutrition together with the experience of my well-traveled chef combine to offer you true, spicy-hot Thai cuisine as well as a milder, representative version.

Both spicy and milder versions are available in appetizers, soups and entrees. I have put stars in front of items on my menu to guide you in making your choices.

... 3 stars — very hot
... 2 stars — medium hot
... 1 star — mildly spicy
No star — not spicy

Everything we serve is from scratch!

C.E.T. 'Dragon' tames 25,000 county children

COLIN PARRISH as the mute betrays sorrow that his friend, the Dragon, has to fight after being intimidated from his peaceful cave by the Knight. Anna Brown portrays the beleagured dragon in Dragon's Blood.

HARDLY A demure princess, Jessica Stevenson injects feistiness into an archtypal role. Stevenson portrayed the Princess in Dragon's Blood during several performances by the Traveling Troupe last week.

Children's Experimental Theatre, it's all part of the intrigue of a live show.

For 27 years the Children's Experimental Theatre (C.E.T.) has offered dramatic training to Monterey County youngsters. And for 21 of those years, C.E.T. has assembled a Traveling Troupe that exports live theater to children in county points north, east, south and west — from Big Sur to San Ardo. The troupe is such an enduring local institution, many of the students who view performances today are the sons and daughters of the Traveling Troupe audiences of the '60s.

Marcia Gambrell Hovick founded C.E.T. in 1960, and still contributes mightily to the non-profit organization. She wrote each of the fairy tales that the troupe takes on the road, and it is she who silences hundreds of squirming schoolchildren with a warm but demonstrative "Ladies and Gentleman."

Children who are often sophisticated consumers of video fare sit open-mouthed throughout a performance by Traveling Troupe.

"This is really worth doing," Hovick asserted. "You can hear a pin drop. For CRESPI HALL at Junipero Serra School in Carmel drew children from several local schools for performances by Children's Experimental Theatre last week. Enthralled by the live performance were Fabie Boudreau, left, a kindergartener; and Juliette Pearlmutter, right, a first grader, both from Apple Pie School.

THE MUTE (Colin Parrish) intercedes between a blood-thirsty knight (Philip Schwyzer) and peace-loving dragon (Anna Brown) in the Traveling Troupe staging of Dragon's Blood. Each of the fairy tales performed by the troupe are written by its founder and artistic director, Marcia Gambrell Hovick. Established 21 years ago, the Carmel-based troupe plays to tens of thousands of elementary school children in Monterey County each year.

many kids this is their only experience with live theater. We hope what we're doing is to train audiences as well as actors."

This year's experiment in audience training is called "Dragon's Blood." Hovick said that she learned many years ago to limit a show to about 30 minutes' length, to meet a child's attention span.

"Dragon's Blood" features a stock roster of fairy tale characters, from milk maid to mute to dragon, but the message of the story challenges stereotypes. The princess is not so much demure as overbearing, the whimsically garbed dragon is more fearful than fierce.

Five casts of players who are in grades four through 12 rotate performance schedules so that none of them misses school more than once a month. The Traveling Troupe ensemble is made up of actors who are in at least their second season with C.E.T. The cast who toured last week included high school-age actors who are now seasoned Traveling Troupe veterans.

Pip Schwyzer, who assumed the role of the sword-wielding knight, has logged 10 years with C.E.T. He started with the ensemble in grade one, and now attends Carmel High School.

"They're very nice kids. The only difficult thing about this is the endurance," said Anna

WHAT'S A school carnival without face painting, cakewalks and a dunk tank? Captain Cooper School in Big Sur will overlook none of those traditions, and will also add drawings for prizes designed to please both kids and grownups. The 25th birthday party of the school will be celebrated Saturday, May 9.

Captain Cooper School celebrates birthday

A 25th birthday celebration at Cooper Cooper School will feature a grander-than-ever carnival.

The annual event takes on an international flavor Saturday, May 9 between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. as El Mariachi Mixtlan and Jake Stock and the Abalone Stompers entertain carnival-goers. Win a five-day and four-night stay for two at the new Tropicana Tower in Mazatlan, Mexico — a trip for two to Reno, or more than 50 other prizes such as lunches and dinners for two at Big Sur and Monterey Peninsula restaurants.

Watch for the banner spanning Highway 1 at the entrance to Sur Valley.

Children can walk the Cakewalk with Smokey the Bear, Woodsey Owl, and Cali the Quail, win prizes at Judge Burleigh's Famous Bean Bag Toss, dunk good-natured Big Sur folks at the Dunk Tank, or try their luck at the Fish Pond, the Goldfish Booth, Numbers Roulette, Darts 'n' Balloons, Firehose-Squirting or the Basketball Throw.

Little ones will find pony rides and the helium balloons. Adults and children can find Mother's Day gifts and cards at the Mother's Day Booth.

Toys, books, appliances, clothing, and other treasures from Big Sur households await the bargain-hunter at the White Elephant Booth. Plan to have a lunch from the Good Food Booth while enjoying the music and fun. Put on a happy face at the Face Painting Booth and spend a day in Big Sur at Captain Cooper School's "25th Birthday" Carnival.

UCSC counselor visits college

Rich Bias, a counselor at the University of California, Santa Cruz, will visit the Monterey Peninsula College campus on Tuesday, May 12.

From 9 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., Bias will meet with students by appointment to discuss UCSC programs and service. To make an appointment, call 646-4020.

All Saints' plans summer program

All Saints' Episcopal Day School in Carmel Valley is offering a summer program from July 6 to 31. The program will include classes devoted to academic reinforcement in reading, writing or mathematics. A highlight will be a four-week writing workshop called "Heroes, Emperors, Kings and Popes."

The program will also feature enrichment classes in computer, watercolor, animal illustration, ceramics, children's classics, shadow drawing, calligraphy, jazz dance, soccer, cooking and sewing. Many of the classes will be open to adults as well as children.

For more information, contact the school at 624-9171.

Joel Meyerowitz photos featured

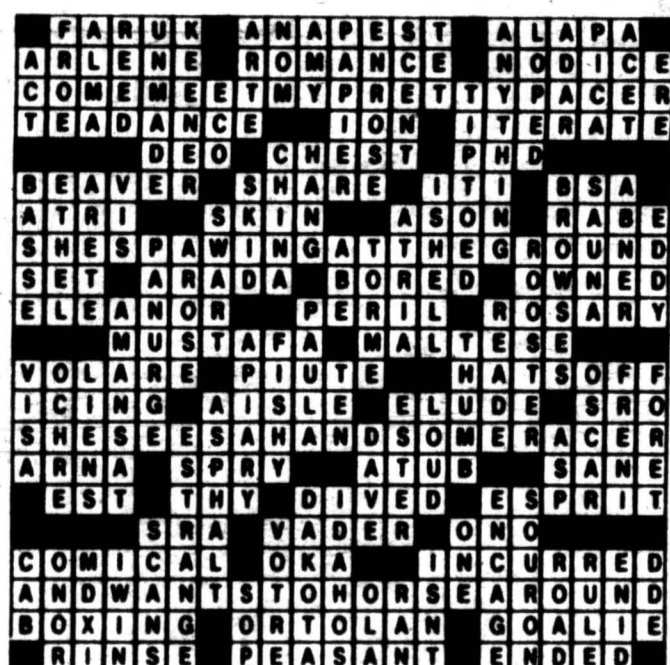

Color photographs by Joel Meyerowitz from his portfolio, "Cape Light," are featured through June 10 in an exhibit at Photography West Gallery, Carmel.

The photographs were taken with an eight-by-10 view camera and explore the subtle color and the quiet atmosphere that have fascinated Meyerowitz during his summers on Cape Cod in Massachusetts.

Formerly an accomplished black and white "street photographer," Meyerowitz since 1976 has turned to large-format color photography. He has shown at the Museum of Modern Art in New York City and has been the recipient of National Endowment for the Arts awards and two Guggenheim Fellowships.

Photography West Gallery is on Dolores near Ocean in Carmel and is open 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call 625-1587.

Classic of the Pacific draws top-drawer canines to Pebble

ALL BREEDS, some 500 in number, will be judged Saturday, May 9 in the 65th annual Del Monte Kennel Club Show. Competition begins 9 a.m. on the lawn in front of the Lodge at Pebble Beach. Admission is $5 and proceeds go to the Ventana Wilderness Society.

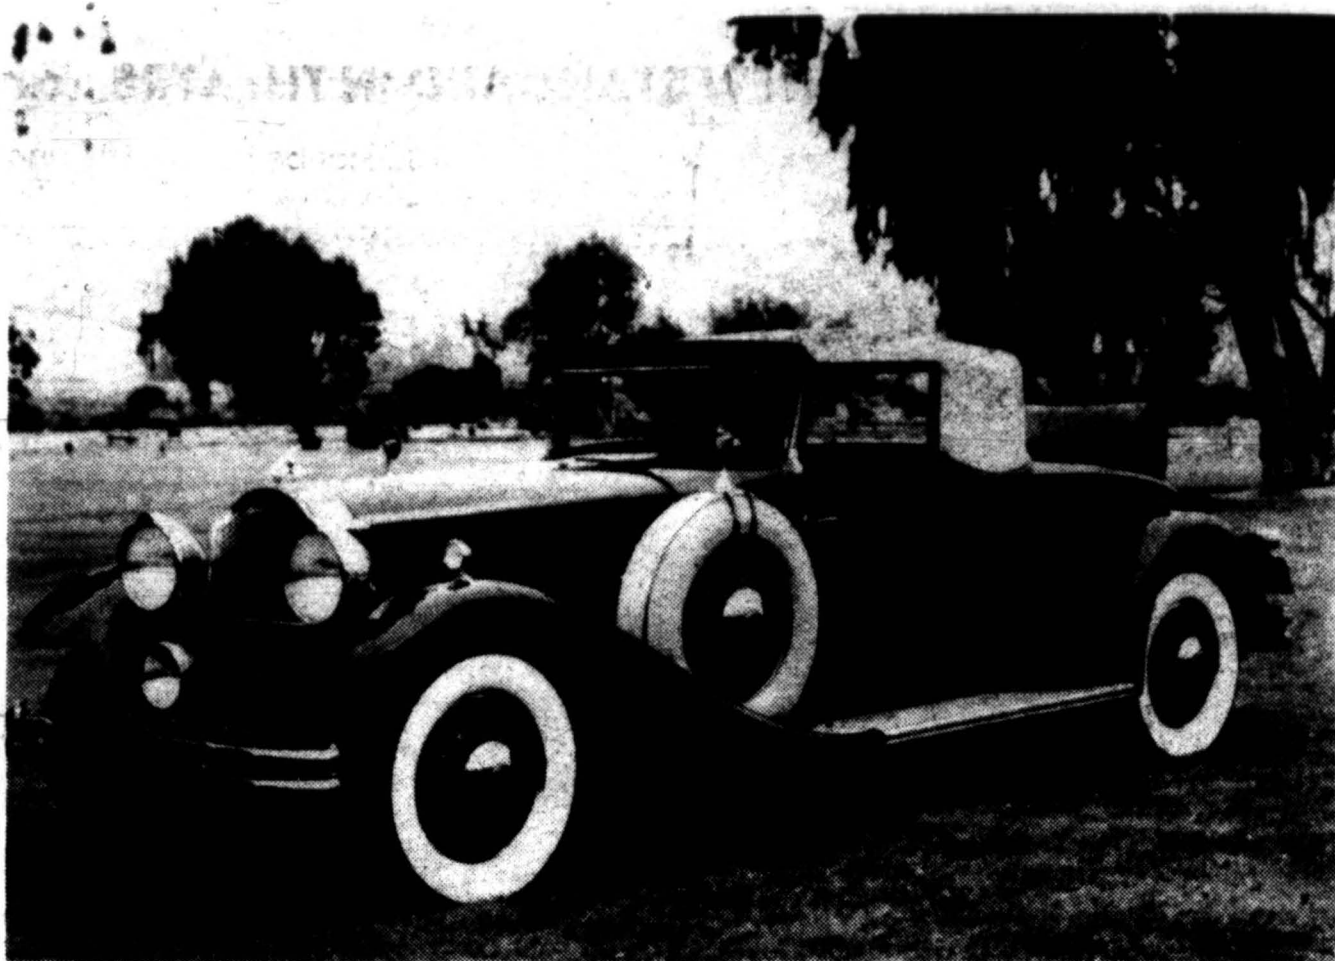

THE EXPANSIVE lawn in front of the Lodge at Pebble Beach provides the setting for the Classic of the Pacific Dog Show, returning Saturday, May 9. Some 500 dogs are entered in the 65th incarnation of this show, which is sponsored by the Del Monte Kennel Club.

Show hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Competition starts at 9 a.m. with group judging to begin about 3 p.m. Under American Kennel Club rules, an all-breed show like the Classic of the Pacific is open to all breeds and the focus is kept on the dogs' conformation. Its six divisions are sporting, working, terriers, toys, hounds and non-sporting.

Among the judges on Saturday will be Joe Tacker of Carmel, Jacklyn Hungerland of Carmel, Dorthy MacDonald of Carmel Valley, Rosalie G. Alvarez of Los Altos Hills, Frank Bilger of Santa Rosa, Betsy LaHam of Sacramento, Quintin LaHam of Sacramento, Frank Nishimura of San Francisco, Winifred Nishimura of San Francisco, Mary O'Quinn of Las Vegas and Nancy Pollock of Corrales, N.M.

Admission is $5 and proceeds go to the Ventana Wilderness Society.

For additional information about the 65th All-Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial, call Judy McCarthy at Suds 'n Scissors in Carmel.

THIS 1931 Packard, an $45 Le Baron Convertible Coupe, was for some years used as a tow truck in King City by Walter Paine's Chevrolet Garage. "Ole Packard," now restored, will be among the vehicles featured during the second annual Monterey Concours d'Elegance. Cadillac and Aston Martin will be the showcase makes during the event, arriving Saturday, May 9 at the Monterey Fairgrounds.

Monterey Concours d'Elegance will benefit Meals on Wheels

NOT YOUR average horseless carriage but exquisitely restored examples of fine automotive craftsmanship will be exhibited during the second annual Monterey Concours d'Elegance. Cadillac and Aston Martin will be the celebrated makes this year, as the cars pull into the Monterey Fairgrounds on Saturday, May 9.

Pre-1915 models through 1965 automobiles will be put to the judges' test. The event is a benefit for Meals on Wheels of the Monterey Peninsula.

Judging will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday at the Fairgrounds, located at Fairgrounds and Garden roads in Monterey. The judged classes are many, extending even to pre-1959 motorcycles and bicycles built through 1930.

Other judged divisions include Cadillac/LaSalle, Ford Thunderbird (1955-57), antique (1916-1927), European sports cars through 1940, American contemporary (1946-57) and several categories of Rolls-Royce/Bentley.

Entries are judged to the standards of the Monterey Concours d'Elegance, Horseless Carriage Club of America, Classic Car Club of America, Antique Automobile Club of America or Marque Club as appropriate. Consideration is given to authenticity, maintenance, restoration and preparation.

Show admission is $5, $3 for senior citizens, military and juniors. Children under 12 are admitted free.

The concours benefits Meals on Wheels, which for the past 14 years has served low-cost meals to the homebound of the Monterey Peninsula.

Grand prize presentations will be made at 4 p.m. Saturday, and a post show gala is planned 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday at the Hyatt Regency. Tickets to the gala are $22.50, and can be reserved by calling 375-7057 or 375-2311.

ON STAGE

Shades of Stanley Ketchel

Shades of Stanley Ketchel, a storytelling performance about the 1908-1910 Middleweight Champion of the World, returns to the GroveMont Theater Arts Center. The production is conceived and performed by poet Taelen Thomas and staged by Dan Gotch.

Shades of Stanley Ketchel uses story, song, anecdote, poetry and shadow-boxing demonstrations to tell of the man considered to be the greatest of the old-time middleweights. During the Ragtime Era, Ketchel was an enigma of violence and gentle sentimentality. He wept while listening to Chopin, yet was able to knock out 23 heavyweight contenders on 23 consecutive nights, earning the title of the Michigan Assassin.

The performance will be staged at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 12 at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center, 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse), New Monterey. Tickets are $5. Reservations: 649-6852 or 649-5561.

1987 Big Sur Revue

Skits, songs, dance and an original two-act musical comprise the newest revival of the Big Sur Revue. The revue will be staged Thursday through Sunday, May 7-10, in the Big Sur Grange Hall. The production is a benefit for the Big Sur Volunteer Ambulance and Big Sur Grange.

Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean

Big in Bigwood

TARA EVANS portrays Christine in the musical, Bigwood Bar. The original production will be staged this weekend as part of The Big Sur Revue.

Ed Graczyk's contemporary drama continues at the Grove-Mont Theater Arts Center.

Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean is set in a small town dime store where members of a fan club, the Disciples of James Dean, have gathered to mark the 20th anniversary of Dean's death. Their reminiscences mingle with flashbacks to their youth, which, in turn, set off a series of confrontations between them.

Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean, is directed by Mickie Mosley Braun. Appearing in the production are Nikki McKee, Sandy Williams, Gina Ferrari, Lorraine M. Olsen, Denise Clifford, Viki Hurst, Maria Ivy Cates, Kris Ingram and Salvatore Enea.

The play continues at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays until May 16. A Sunday matinee is scheduled for 2 p.m. on May 10.

On Friday and Saturday evenings, admission is $9.50 general and $8 for students, seniors and military. On Thursdays and Sundays, admission is $5 and one dime, in honor of the play's title.

For advance tickets, call Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5561. For information on reservations or group rates, call Grove-Mont at 649-6852.

Sweeney Todd — The Barber

The melodramatic story of a man's greed and madness, Sweeney Todd — The Barber, plays at California's First Theatre. The 19th century work inspired the hit Broadway musical, Sweeney Todd. The troupers will stage an olio of songs and skits following the show.

The theater, which is the oldest in the state, is located on Pacific Street at Scott in Monterey. Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and teens and $4 for children 12 and younger. For information, call 375-4916 between 1 and 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and between 1 p.m. and showtime Fridays and Saturdays.

Media mogul Ted Turner to speak of world peace

In continuing their examination of creative alternatives to war, The New Forum, Beyond War and the United Nations Association of the Monterey Peninsula will host a luncheon for Ted Turner at noon Saturday, May 9 in the Monterey Sheraton's Grand Ballroom.

Ted Turner is chairman of the board and president of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. He owns Turner Entertainment Co., Superstation WTBS, Cable News Network (CNN), Headline News, CNN Radio, the Atlanta Braves, the Atlanta Hawks, and is founding member of "The Better World Society," a non-profit, non-partisan organization. Turner believes that television is the "most powerful tool of communication available." He says, "Television. Communications satellites. Videotapes. All these modern marvels of reaching out can be used to bring the people of the world together." The "Better World Society" was conceived to address nuclear arms, population growth, environment and sustainable development throughout the world.

Reservations for the luncheon and lecture, "Strengthening Global Ties" must be made in advance by writing: The New Forum, P.O. Box 22214, Carmel, CA 93922, or by calling May Waldroup at 624-1803.

Monterey-Salinas Transit has updated its transit plan for the disabled community. To obtain a copy of the plan, which calls for continuation of wheelchair lift-equipped bus service, call 899-2555 or 424-7695.

A public hearing will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. Monday, May 11 at Seaside City Hall. Written comments may be submitted to Monterey-Salinas Transit until June 1.

Tor House Garden Party planned Saturday, May 9

THE ANNUAL Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation garden party arrives noon to 4 p.m. on Saturday, May 9. The English cottage-style garden, the poet's home and Hawk Tower will be open to the public. Tor House is located at 26304 Ocean View Ave. in Carmel.

Docents will be on duty in the house and tower and volunteers will be on hand to answer garden questions.

Admission is $7, which will include refreshments. Tickets may be purchased at the garden gate on Ocean View Avenue. All proceeds will be utilized for the continuing preservation of Tor House, Hawk Tower and the gardens. No children under 12 will be admitted.

For further information, contact the foundation office at 624-1813. The Tor House Foundation is affiliated with the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

Season ticket orders taken for MPC theater productions

At the July 8, preview performance of Oklahoma!, in a thank-you gesture for the Monterey Peninsula College Theatre Department's phenomenal growth in season subscriptions, a two-week trip for two to London, England will be awarded to a 1987-88 season ticket holder.

A member of the audience will be asked to draw from a hat containing all the season order forms. The name drawn will be invited to be the theater department's guest on its annual London theater tour in January. The recipient will be notified and need not be present to qualify.

The trip includes round-trip transportation from MPC to the Russel Hotel in central London, 13 nights accommodations (with private bath), English breakfasts, guests lectures and backstage tours, and the best available seats to eight of London's shows.

Sale of the 1987-88 season ticket is now being opened to the general public. Renewal subscriptions have already exceeded 2,000 and theater manager Andrew Craig is anticipating another sold-out season.

Season ticket subscribers receive a substantial savings over the regular admission price of $10 per show. To encourage family attendance, the first four season tickets are priced progressively less expensive: a single six show season ticket is $24, the second is $18, the third is $12 and the fourth is just $6. Each additional season ticket is only $15 — an average of $2.50 per show.

Opening in July with the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical Oklahoma!, the season continues with the comedy Hayfever, the dramas The Private Life of the Master Race, and Buried Child, the comedy The Philadelphia Story, and concludes with the musical Tommy.

Oklahoma! will be directed and choreographed by guest artist John Pasqualetti. It opens July 9 and runs through July 25. The production will be styled after the original 1943 Broadway production and will feature the full-length 'dream' sequence.

Noel Coward's hilarious comedy of British country manners Hayfever plays Aug. 13-29 and will be staged by guest director Jerry DeBono.

The Private Life of the Master Race will be the October offering. Peter DeBono directs the Bertolt Brecht 'slice of life' portrayal of the '30s and '40s with its stark parallels to contemporary events.

Conrad Selvig directs Sam Shephard's Pulitzer Prize-winning play Buried Child in December, and The Philadelphia Story, one of the great comedies of the American Theatre opens in March '88 with Peter DeBono directing.

Tommy, the musical reflecting the '60s, closes the season in May '88 and will be staged by John Pasqualetti with musical direction by Barney Hulse and Thom Ayres.

Each production previews on a Wednesday and then plays Thursday through Sunday for three weeks, closing on the third Saturday.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. except on Sundays which is a 2 p.m. matinee. The MPC Theater Department season ticket is the convenient coupon-type; subscribers need not choose attendance dates at the time of purchase but can wait until just before each show opens. Season ticket holders also receive a $2 discount for all SRO Theatre shows and MPC Players' off-campus productions.

Season tickets may be ordered through the MPC Theatre Box Office, 980 Fremont Blvd., Monterey, Ca 93940 or call 646-4213 Tues.-Sat., 4-8 p.m.

Season tickets can also be purchased at Center Stage Ticketing, 467 Alvarado (above the Viennese Bakery) in downtown Monterey, 649-5561.

A new experience in Thai Cuisine

BANGKOK GARDEN CUISINE — THE ART OF THAI COOKING

Pleasure in food has long been part of the Thai culture, and the secrets of the Thai cuisine have been passed on from generation to generation for centuries. My training in nutrition together with the experience of my well-traveled chef combine to offer you true, spicy-hot Thai cuisine as well as a milder, representative version.

Both spicy and milder versions are available in appetizers, soups and entrees. I have put stars in front of items on my menu to guide you in making your choices.

- ... 3 stars — very hot
- ... 2 stars — medium hot
- ... 1 star — mildly spicy
- No star — not spicy

Healthful cooking demonstrated

Chef Craig Ling of Creme Carmel Restaurant in Carmel will lead a demonstration of healthful cooking when the diabetes support group meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 13. The group will gather in the main conference room at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

The demonstration will feature low-cholesterol, low-calorie soups, vegetables and fish cooked in fresh herb sauces, among other items. Anyone with an interest in healthful cooking is invited to attend without charge. Early arrival is suggested since seating is limited.

For more information, contact Patient Educator Cindy Onufer, R.N. at 625-4644.

Choral Society accepts series reservations

THE MONTEREY Peninsular Choral Society will perform Faure's Requiem and Gounod's St. Cecilia Mass Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 15-17, at the Carmel Mission Basilica on Rio Road. All concerts start at 8 p.m.

Soloists for these two works will be Darnelle Scarbrough, soprano; Gene Albin, tenor; and David Cox-Cresswell, bass. Rebecca Nelson will accompany the group on the organ, and members of the Central Coast Chamber Orchestra will provide string accompaniment.

Tickets for the concerts are $8 in advance,

$9 at the door. There will be discounted tickets available for senior citizens, students and groups on Friday night only, at $6. Information about these discount tickets may be obtained by calling Dorothy Buffo, ticket chairman, at 394-6351. General tickets may be purchased by sending a check, specifying the number of tickets and the evening desired, to Mrs. Buffo at 5 Quendale, Del Rey Oaks, 93940.

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society is a non-profit organization that presents two concerts each year in the Carmel Mission Basilica, one in the spring and one at Christmastime. The group is led by David Rupert of Santa Cruz, and numbers 60 performing members.

Group analyzes mother/daughter relationship

"NO MATTER how self-sufficient a daughter thought she had become, coming to terms with her relationship to her mother during her adult years was a perplexing time."

That statement strikes the heart of the lecture/discussion titled "The Daughter/Mother Relationship -- Transforming a Critical Tie Regarding the Questions of Separation/Attachment." It will be presented at 7 p.m. on Saturday, May 9 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel, under the sponsorship of the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C.G. Jung.

The presentation will be made by Emily Hancock, Ed.D. of Berkeley. She is on the faculty of the Center for Psychological Studies, Albany. Her doctorate was earned at the Laboratory of Human Development, Harvard University.

In formulating a theory of women's development, Dr. Hancock made in-depth interviews with women ranging in age from 30 to 75, and examined the critical psychological reality of attachment to the mother. She suggests that the reshaping of this tie so that it fits the women they had become was critical to daughters long after they had defined themselves by taking on such commitments as marriage, motherhood and careers.

The Friends of C.G. Jung is an informal group of people who are sharing an enthusiasm for Jung's seminal ideas through events like this one, and through small-group "living room" meetings on topics of special interest. For more information, call or write 649-8809; 853 Pacific St. Monterey. The public is invited, and donations are requested to help defray travel and related expenses.

Ursin-Smith to manage symphony

ROLF URSIN-SMITH has been named general manager of the Monterey County Symphony and will assume his duties May 15. He succeeds Constance Breien, who served as interim manager until the county symphony could find a permanent administrator.

Ursin-Smith retired last year after a 29-year career with IBM Corporation, including management positions with IBM divisions in San Jose and San Francisco. His last job with IBM was secretary and chief financial officer of the IBM General Business Products unit in San Jose. He also served as manager of IBM's Norben Center in Sweden and the Netherlands from 1975-77.

He has been managing director of the U.S. Consulting Group since 1986, a consulting organization specializing in problem-solving for rapidly expanding enterprises.

Ursin-Smith did his undergraduate work at Ohio State University and received an M.A. from Ohio State in 1957. During his service in the U.S. Army, he was editor of the 4th Army Times newspaper.

Active in civic and arts organizations in the South Bay Area, he is a member of the board of directors of the San Jose Civic Light Opera. As head of a volunteer committee, he helped double the number of season subscriptions to the Light Opera in 1984-85.

Ursin-Smith and his wife, Jan, have three grown children. They are currently looking for a home on the Monterey Peninsula.

ROLF URSIN-SMITH succeeds Constance Breien as general manager of the Monterey County Symphony. He will assume duties on May 15.

Brown, 14, of York School. Brown, who portrays the beleaguered dragon, knows her audience. A C.E.T. performer for eight years, she recalled one incident in which "an overexcited child put a nail in another child's foot."

Sacha Cremer, 16, a Santa Catalina student who last week acted the role of Mafidy, the milkmaid, maintained that Traveling Troupe "is good training for getting along with people and talking. I've gotten a lot out of it. Sometimes the eighth-graders with mustaches can be a little obnoxious."

Considerable planning goes into the Traveling Troupe performances that are enjoyed by some 25,000 children annually. Traversing Monterey County in their Traveling Troupe van, the cast members, director, tourmaster Norman Stottmeister and costume designer Loel Shuler stage an average of four to five shows a day.

"This is the hardest thing you can imagine. There are some schools where attention is not demanding as thoroughly and some where it's over-demanded," Hovick said.

The ensembles rehearse in the fall, and then tour from January until the conclusion of the school year, usually May.

Fairy tales like "Dragon's Blood" often instill absolute silence in young viewers, the director added.

"These are plays for children by children. There's something about archetypal figures that strike children," she said.

Proof of the popularity of Traveling Troupe was apparent at the conclusion of a staging of "Dragon's Blood" in the multipurpose room of Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley Village.

The ensemble had already performed that day for students of Junipero Serra, River, Chartwell and Apple Pie schools. As they struck the simple set, a group of new-won fans returned to the cafeteria to request autographs from the dragon, the knight and the princess.

Pianist William Corbett-Jones to perform

Conductor, composer, violinist David Sackson will be joined by pianist William Corbett-Jones in a duet recital program at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 9 in the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall.

David Sackson, who was the music director of the Hudson Valley Symphony Orchestra and a member of the Phoenix String Quartet, makes frequent appearances as a soloist with the Musical Arts Trio. He is a graduate of the Institute of Musical Art in New York and has been music director of the Charleston Symphony Orchestra and the Phoenix Chamber Orchestra.

William Corbett-Jones has been a frequent guest at MPC for the last eight years with his keyboard recitals. The two will perform Sonata No. 3 in E Major, Bach; Fantasy in C Major, Op. 159 D 934 by Schubert; Sonata in three movements by Debussy; Sonata No. 2 in D Major, Op. 94 by Prokofiev.

Tickets at the door are $7.

Peninsula Poets will meet at the Thunderbird

At 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 12 in the Thunderbird Bookstore in the mouth of Carmel Valley, The Peninsula Poets will present two local novelists, Daniel James and Raymond A. Mungo.

Mungo, a graduate with honors of both Harvard and Boston universities, is an author, editor and freelance writer. Currently, he is the editor in chief of Creative States Quarterly, staff book reviewer for the San Francisco Chronicle and Examiner; and director of Writers' Jamboree seminars in Monterey.

His published books include Famous Long Ago, Total Loss Farm, Between Two Moons, Tropical Detective Story, Return to Sender, Cosmic Profit, Confessions From Left Field. Another book, Lit Biz 101, The Business of Literature, will be on the stands soon.

His articles have been published in numerous magazines and reviews ranging from the New York Times Book Review to Playgirl, The Village Voice and Mother Jones.

Daniel James, author of the novel Famous All Over Town, writes under the pen name Danny Santiago, the equivalent in Spanish of his own name.

A $3 fee will be charged. Food and drink may be purchased before the readings and during the intermission. The time is 7:30 p.m., the place The Thunderbird Bookstore at the mouth of Carmel Valley, Tuesday, May 12.

W-4 form tax workshop scheduled

The Internal Revenue Service is offering a "How to Complete the New W-4" workshop in Salinas on May 13, according to IRS District Representative Rob Simpson.

"We are pleased to be able to offer these free, self-help sessions on both the new W-4 and the shorter W-4A to the general public here in the Salinas area," Simpson said.

"It is important that taxpayers complete the new W-4 by June 1 to avoid a penalty for being underwithheld for 1987," he added.

Every worker is required to file the new 1987 W-4, or W-4A, before October 1.

The session will be held at Hartnell College Center Dining Room, 156 Homestead Ave., in Salinas at 3 p.m. on Monday, May 13.

A step-by-step instruction will cover the new W-4 and W-4A. The changes in the tax law, which made the new W-4 necessary, will also be discussed.

John Baptist Jackson woodcuts exhibited in Carmel

CHIAROSCURO WOODCUTS by John Baptist Jackson are the focus of an exhibition opening Friday, May 1 at the Pasquale Iannetti Art Galleries in Carmel. The show will continue through May 30 at the galleries located on Sixth Avenue at Mission Street.

John Baptist Jackson (1701-c.1780) left his native England in 1725 to work in Paris as a carver of woodcut book illustrations. His talents were well regarded, but, evidently an eccentric and difficult personality, Jackson tarnished his relationships with his colleagues and patrons and in 1731 left France for Italy. He reached Venice in 1734, and after working as a woodcutter for various printers, embarked on a personal project to revive the art of chiaroscuro woodcut (first developed in the early 16th century in Germany and Italy). Finding patronage with wealthy Italians and Englishmen in Venice, Jackson began his "Venice set," rendering seventeen late Renaissance paintings by the 16th-century Venetian masters Titian, Veronese, Tintoretto and the Bassanos as large chiaroscuro woodcuts.

When the technique was invented, chiaroscuro (from the Italian words light-dark) was used to replicate drawings made in monochromatic shades of ink wash on tinted papers with white highlights - making printed multiples after unique master drawings. Jackson's idea was to use the medium to reproduce large and many-colored Venetian paintings. He managed to recreate the often tumultuous scenes with a transition of color as separately printed and layered monochromes - usually in shades of brown - adding an innovative use of embossing by sending uninked blocks through the press to enrich the texture of the prints.

Thus from eight separately carved blocks - four blocks for each panel - Jackson made his woodcut diptych after Veronese's huge (21' 10" x 32' 6"), festive and strange Marriage at Cana (not quite so controversial as his Feast in the House of Levi, 1573, in the Accademia, Venice) - the different shades cut on separate blocks, with intermediate tones achieved by overprinting, and the rich brocades of the revelers' clothes impressed into a third dimension by means of embossing. A dedication carved in the block, present in each of the woodcuts, honors one of several patrons who made Jackson's grand project possible. (The faces of the musicians in the center foreground of Veronese's Marriage at Cana, recreated in Jackson's woodcut, were portrait likenesses of Titian, playing bass viol, Jacopo Bassano, viol, and Veronese himself, playing viola da braccio.)

In all, Jackson undertook the complicated task of planning, carving and printing 94 blocks to create the 24 panels comprising the set of 17 prints - single sheets, diptychs and triptychs. The set was published in Venice in 1745 by J.B. Pasquali, under the title Titiani

CHIAROSCURO WOODCUTS by John Baptist Jackson are the focus of an exhibition showing at the Pasquale Iannetti Art Galleries in Carmel. Jackson, (1701-1780), was a native of England who worked in France and Italy.

Vecelii, Pauli Caliarri, Jacobi Robusti et Jacobi de Ponte: opera selectiora a Joanne Baptista Jackson, Anglo ligno coelata et coloribus adumbrata. (Paolo Caliari is Veronese, Jacopo Robusti is Tintoretto, and Jacopo de Ponte is the elder Bassano, whose sons, each author of a work in the set, are not credited in the title.) Jackson returned to England in 1745 after 20 years' absence and died in obscurity; the art of the woodcut fell from favor until revived again in the work of Gauguin and Munch. Jackson's oeuvre stands as a neglected, rather isolated but remarkable link in the history of the woodcut.

Impressionistic images by Claude Pissarro showcased

A PUBLIC GRAND opening of an exhibition of the works of French Impressionist painter Claude Pissarro will be featured at the Hanson Art Galleries, Ocean and San Carlos in Carmel from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday, May 9.

Thirty-two pastels and oil paintings will be displayed at the gallery through the month of May. Pissarro's works have previously been displayed throughout Europe, including exhibitions in Paris, Strasbourg and Nice, as well as in the United States in New York City. Hanson Galleries is presenting Pissarro's first West Coast exhibition and opened the show in their La Jolla Gallery on April 17 before traveling it to Carmel.

Pissarro, now in his 50s, lives and paints in Paris. His impressive career has spanned both "conceptual" artist as well as Impressionist painter, thus balancing his style between that of modern artist and traditional Impressionist.

Pissarro comes by his talent naturally, being a third generation Impressionist from the famous Pissarro family. His grandfather was the very notable Camille Pissarro (1830-1903). A major Impressionist, Camille Pissarro traveled in the influential circle of Parisian artists, including Monet, Van Gogh and Cezanne. This group of artists joined together against the concept that art had to be sharp and distinct to be of value.

The paintings of Claude Pissarro evoke an historical richness, a reflection of his roots in the bygone era of Impressionism. His country scenes and rural figures are reminiscent of another place and time. Although he has often denied being an Impressionist, his style embodies every aspect of Impressionism: light, texture, softness and mood.

LA LAVEUSE de Vaisselle, a pastel by Claude Pissarro, is among his images to be included in the exhibition opening Saturday, May 9 at Hanson Art Galleries, Ocean Avenue near San Carlos Street, Carmel.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

Musical events abound

OPENING A WEEKEND, during which the peninsula overflowed with musical events, the Cypress Wind Quintet made its concert debut May 1 at the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey.

A wind quintet is a very special musical commodity. It is not the usual commercial entity. This makes it hard to form, even harder to support and very difficult to keep alive. It will be most interesting to see whether this group can surmount these problems.

The accomplished members of the quintet, Ray Fabrizio, flute; David Seeley, oboe; Joe Englert, clarinet; Jane Orzel, bassoon, and John Orzel, French horn, all familiar performers to local orchestra audiences, chose a program of music specifically and knowingly composed for their instrumental grouping. Happily, there were no "arrangements." However, this is still a rather limited repertoire. Classical composers wrote little for this combination of instruments and it is only in the last century that a body of music with any value has developed.

Four particularly pleasant, though seldom heard, late-nineteenth and early-twentieth century works were performed. The emphasis was on the Paris Conservatoire tradition. The first piece was a Quintet by Paul Taffanel, the founder of this style. Once they got past a rather jittery opening where matters sounded tentative and uncertain, the musicians settled into a solidly played, polished series of movements. They displayed the legato qualities of their instruments very neatly. There was flexibility in the dynamics, clean attacks and well worked out balances. Considering the rehearsal scheduling problems busy professional musicians have, the performance overall was cohesive and intelligent. This is typically airy and elegant French music and the style was well captured.

Three Shanties by the contemporary English composer Malcolm Arnold were witty and bright as they traversed a gallery of musical clichés ranging from the satiric Russian through a tipsy tango, a Mexican cucuracha and even a chorale. The playing was precise and the humor clearly projected.

A Suite by Charles Lefebvre, who was also of the Paris Conservatoire and a contemporary of Taffanel, was the most substantive work on the program. Sounding much like a French Robert Schumann, its romantic content demanded a rounder tone and more serious approach. The gentle melodies and pleasing harmonies were well and solidly expressed. Again the musical details were professionally attended to. These people, for all the youth of their ensemble, play well together.

The Three Short Pieces by Ibert, a real favorite with performers and audience alike, closed the program. The music is utterly charming, jazzy, playful and piquantly dissonant. The bright virtuoso playing with its sparkling instrumental colors and witty rhythmic emphasis was just right. The brief Andante cast a spotlight on the abilities of Ray Fabrizio and Joe Englert who captured its tender sensibilities in excellent fashion.

One detail though that the fine professional members of the Cypress Wind Quintet had forgotten to rehearse was how to take an ensemble bow with a precision attack. But, by the third time, they had almost gotten it together.

IN PAST YEARS I have reviewed many Chamber Music Society Awards Concerts, but seldom audited the actual competition. This time I decided to reverse the process and try to experience the thrills and frustrations the judges must go through in order to choose the winners.

This year's judges, a particularly qualified assemblage, were coordinated by Rosario Mazzeo, long a distinguished clarinetist and educator. Conducto-composer George Barati, pianist William Corbett-Jones and trumpeter Carole Klein were the other members of the panel; one other judge became ill and had to bow out.

It was their task to sort out the really "un" comparable apples and oranges of eight differently constituted chamber groups in order to confer two grand prizes of $2,500, one to a string group and one to a wind group. There was also a second prize of $1,750 and a third prize of $1,250. It was stipulated that all players must be under 26 years old, be affiliated with a college or conservatory and have been coached there. Seventeen ensembles were screened, 11 were chosen to compete and of these, three were unable to appear.

Therefore, Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, I was seated in Sunset Theater, pencil in hand, ready to second guess the judges (as was almost everyone else in the audience.) I looked forward to sorting out the relative merits of three string groups and five wind groups, none of whose credentials did I know. A list was supplied after the competition ended.

The program began with the string ensembles. All contestants were to play eight minutes of music of their choice and then 12 minutes of music selected by the judges from the two major works the contestants elected to be assessed on.

The Montclair String Quartet from Yale University led off the competition with an incisive, attention arresting statement of the first movement of the Bartok Quartet No. 5. This was a potentially treacherous choice, but they played with authority. When the judges requested the Andante of the Beethoven Quartet op. 59 no. 3, the players were not as sure of their intonation and accents. Generally they were in control of their material.

The Ballad String Trio from the Juilliard School chose the Mozart Divertimento in E Flat as their display vehicle. This was not well grounded in tempo, and intonation suffered at first. Stability came later. Their playing of the Dohnanyi Trio was much more confident. The violinist is an outstanding performer with distinct soloist abilities.

The USC Menage Trio (clarinet, cello and piano) began with the Allegro of the Brahms Trio op. 113. The sterling quality of their cellist was immediately apparent as they played. Their ensemble and musicality were noteworthy. Their maturity, though their average age only 21, was remarkable. In the Mulzynski Fantasy Trio the musicians did not sound as if they were carrying out the instructions of their coach (as some of the others did). There was a freedom and fluidity to their interpretation which came across as inner-directed and mature.

After an intermission, the wind groups held sway. The Movellan Wind Quintet of the Queensland Conservatory in Australia gave a brilliant traversal of the Six Bagatelles by Gyorgy Ligeti. This is a truly professional sounding group whose youth (average age 20) and brightness brought a sheen and sparkle to their performance. They made the transition from 20th century Ligeti to early 19th century Danzi easily and convincingly. Though their oboe player had a "cackly" tone which didn't blend very well, the rest of the group transcended this lack with their own warmth and sonority of tone. Their playing made a strong impression.

Next, the Los Angeles Wind Sextet from USC (two clarinets, two horns and two bassoons) played music by Seiber and Mozart. The Seiber Serenade showed them as a rich-toned, responsive body. One horn player rushed his leading passages, but the others held steadily on their proper musical path.

The Broken Obelisk Flute Quartet from the University of Washington added a touch of novelty to the event. They probably programmed most of the existing repertoire for four flutes for the competition. They played very adeptly, but it is hard to envision them as a viable performing ensemble. There simply isn't enough variety in their sound. The Broughton and Reicha works, though well done, left one wishing for more tonal variety and contrast.

The Arizona State University Saxophone Quartet on the other hand, was exciting to hear. Though these were four saxophones, their timbre had a large range of colors and thrilling tonal immediacy. No matter what you think about the instrument, the group sound had an enveloping character. One couldn't help enjoying it.

To conclude the competition, the Atlantic Brass Quintet of the Boston University School of Music displayed professional performance practice. They memorized their music, playing standing except for the tuba. Everything was cleanly executed, tone was sensitively modulated and the ensemble was positively glossy. They ranged from lyrical sweetness to brazen power in impression fashion.

Then the judges went into conference. The audience compared notes and made their own choices. I deliberated hard and chose the Menage Trio (clarinet, cello and piano) and the Wind Quartet as my first prize winners, the Saxophone Quartet was second and the Brass Quintet third. But it was a case of win a few — lose a few.

The distinguished judges gave the Monterey County Cultural Award of $2,500 to the Yale University String Quartet. The Chamber Music Society Award for Winds and Brasses of $2,500 went to the Boston University Brass Quintet. We agreed on the choice of the Florence Allan Award of $1,750 to the Saxophone Quartet and finally the W. Frederick Schaad Award of $1,250 went to the Queensland Conservatory Wind Quintet.

To add further spice to the mixture, the Coleman Competition in Southern California recently awarded first prize to the Queensland Woodwind Quintet and a fourth prize to The Boston University Brass Quintet. So, who is to say who is right? One can only praise the competition givers for helping these talented young musicians on their way.

Hepburn stars in 'Song of Love'

The MPC Art Gallery is located in the Creative Arts Department and is open 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays. For information, call 646-4200.

TO CLOSE both the 41st season of the Monterey County Symphony and an overflowing weekend of music, pianist Grant Johannesen joined Clark Suttle and the orchestra for his last concert set in King Hall Sunday night.

A program of mature works by two such diverse composers as Camille Saint-Saens and Gustave Mahler made for an unusually varied mixture of musical colors. Saint-Saens was 25 when Mahler was born in 1860. He was still going strong when Mahler died in 1911, outliving Mahler by another 11 years.

By a stretch of the meaning of the word, it was also an evening of concertos. The Mahler Fifth Symphony was a concerto where the orchestra players were the soloists. The symphony is known as the "Great" due to its size; it takes over an hour to play by a fully fleshed, expanded modern orchestra.

The work is in five movements laid out in three divisions. It begins with a Funeral March which acts as an introduction to the second movement. Through this section which starts softly and builds to a massive forte over and over again, you were aware of five virtuoso string sections and a solo trumpet line handled masterfully by Adam Gordon.

The strings alternated their sad song with the marching tread of the wind band. There was a wave of such alternations punctuated by dramatic outbursts. Suttle controlled the tempo and dynamic gradations with assurance and kept the drama moving in very well chosen directions.

The Allegro proceeded with a sense of a headlong impulse at times, but it was always reined in by the conductor. The cellos played with depth, exact inflections and good intonation. Mahler's compositional structure, which soon became almost overly familiar, is of a series of episodes with coda following on coda, leaving the listener straining to arrive at a conclusion. In the meantime, there were pages and pages of sumptuously dramatic music which was conveyed with a driving certainty and technical polish. This young, professional orchestra gave their performance energy and fire.

In the Scherzo, principal horn Phil Richardson acquitted himself excellently, playing with fine tone and absolute technical assurance. Again, the many varied episodes plumb the capabilities of both the orchestra and the conductor.

Then came the Adagietto, a movement almost as familiar to music lovers as the Bach Air on the G String. Scored for strings and harp, with Patricia Fletcher as the eloquent harpist, it has a poetic, yearning melody which was very well realized. There probably would have been a rather sensuous string tone if the acoustics in King Hall would allow it. Unfortunately they don't. Still each section played as a massed soloist and it worked out eloquently.

The Finale is a pastoral, light-hearted (for Mahler) romp. Again, there were innumerable episodes and codas until finally, one led out the maze and ended the work. Suttle appeared well aware of the problem and did what he could to alleviate it. This is a titanic symphony and it keeps everyone busy most of the way through. There is no let up in the players' and conductor's need to concentrate. It was difficult and they can be proud of what they accomplished.

Piano soloist Grant Johannesen opened the concert by playing the Fourth Piano Concerto by Saint-Saens. Fortunately in view of what followed after the intermission, it is not a weighty work. There are technical demands which are not to be scoffed at, but its Gallic charm and airy flavor make it most enjoyable.

This is a meditative work for the most part. The solo part is in the nature of conversational exchanges with the orchestra, often with an irresistible rhythmic bounce and joie de vivre. The required virtuosity is understated. Johannesen played with simplicity and clarity, staying with a gentle dynamic range. The balance between soloist and orchestra in the flowing soft passages was well handled.

The Scherzo got off to a shaky start. Until then all had gone well. The galloping scherzo rhythm was uncontrolled and the pianist sounded strained, but then it all came together again. Everyone got to where he belonged musically.

Often times when rehearsal time is as limited as the County Symphony's is, a concerto becomes an adventure. It is easy to stray away and become uncoordinated. One keeps a sharp eye on the conductor and hopes for the best.

John Cunningham honored

The Carmel Art Association will honor one of its major contributing senior member artists, John Cunningham, with a show of his work in the Beardsley Room of the CAA galleries.

The show will open Thursday, May 7 and continue through June 3. The galleries are on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Cunningham is a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley, and the University of Munchen, Germany. He studied under Hans Hofmann, Andre L'Hote and Benjamino Bufano. His first one-man show was at the M.H. DeYoung Memorial Museum in San Francisco in 1932. He served as president of the Carmel Art Association in 1965, and has been a member of the Carmel Art Institute since 1940.

Color photographs by Joel Meyerowitz from his portfolio, "Cape Light," are featured through June 10 in an exhibit at Photography West Gallery, Carmel.

The photographs were taken with an eight-by-10 view camera and explore the subtle color and the quiet atmosphere that have fascinated Meyerowitz during his summers on Cape Cod in Massachusetts.

Formerly an accomplished black and white "street photographer," Meyerowitz since 1976 has turned to large-format color photography. He has shown at the Museum of Modern Art in New York City and has been the recipient of National Endowment for the Arts awards and two Guggenheim Fellowships.

Photography West Gallery is on Dolores near Ocean in Carmel and is open 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call 625-1587.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Friday 29th of May, 1987, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock a.m. of said day, in the lobby of the office of WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, 118 W. Gabilan Street, Salinas, County of Monterey, State of California, Western Title Insurance Company, a corporation, as Trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, the following described real property, situated in the County of Monterey, State of California, and commonly known as A.P. 416-081-19 and being more particularly described as follows: Parcel 1, as shown on Parcel Map filed for record January 7, 1977 in Volume II of Parcel Maps at Page 21, Monterey County Records.

YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED November 4, 1983. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER.

Said deed will be without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances to satisfy the obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in a certain deed of trust executed by SHELDON L. GOLDSTEIN and JAMES M. WARD, Trustees of the Goldstein Family Trust, under Declaration of Trust dated October 2, 1981 as Trustor, to WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, a corporation as Trustee, for the benefit and security of HALLIE C. HALVERSON, a single woman and GENE DAUBITZ, a single man, as Joint Tenants dated November 4, 1983, and recorded November 9, 1983, in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Monterey, State of California, in Reel 1682 of the Official Records at page 568.

The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold, including estimated costs, expenses and advance is: $371,912.78. The name, street address and telephone number of the Trustee conducting this sale is: WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, 118 W. Gabilan Street, Salinas, CA. 93901.

The name, address and telephone number of the Beneficiary at whose request this sale is to be conducted, is: HALLIE C. HALVERSON & GENE DAUBITZ, 26375 Jeanette Road, Carmel Valley, CA. 93924, (408) 659-4807.

Directions may be obtained to locate the property being sold, pursuant to a written request submitted to the beneficiary within 10 days from the first publication of this notice.
Dated April 20, 1987.

WESTERN TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY.
By Chet Lowney, Vice President
Gregory E. Bates, Assistant Secretary

The Pinwheel House

This is a very unusual house, quite unlike anything we have seen before. First, it's on a large lot (1/3 acre) and set away at the back, thus providing absolute privacy. A gently rising drive opens through steel gates and leads back to the detached 2-car garage.

To your right is the house itself, cream-painted board and batten in the lower part, white horizontal siding in all the gables, and a shake roof topping it off. The front door is protected by an overhanging roof, and it features a great panel of stained bottle glass. This motif is repeated in bathroom windows and some of the end windows.

Passing through a small hall, you come at once to a sort of hub, a chest-high cabinet center off which the various spaces of the house project like spokes on a wheel. They are all different: different sizes, ceiling heights, finishes and functions.

Going clockwise, the largest space, 21x20, is the living room. Large windows on south and west, sliding glass doors opening to a paved patio on the north. Five dark beams hold up the high, inverted-tray shaped ceiling a perfectly proportioned brick fireplace is on the west, and 2 sides of the room are panelled in dark wood. The floor is random width oak, stained dark.

Next comes the master bedroom with the same floors, another set of sliding doors, all white walls and plenty of closet and cabinet space. The bath here is generous in size, tastefully papered, with tub and shower.

The kitchen is the spoke directly opposite the living room. It's long and narrow and ends at a dormer window over the sink. It could hardly be more functional. You can stand in one spot and reach range, dishwasher, oven, sink and multiple cabinets. Countertops and splash backs are brown tile.

The final spoke, thrusting toward the front, is a second large bedroom and bath, with windows on 3 sides. This room is two steps below the rest of the house, a pleasant change that produces extra high ceilings.

If you like quiet, privacy and comfort (and even an half-bath in the garage), this has it! The address is 3205 Camino del Monte. The price is $265,000

CARMEL LEGENDS

No. 15

If you didn't know it was there, you might easily pass by the GREAT WALL OF CARMEL. It's a Carmel stone monument, 2½ feet wide and slightly higher than a man's head, that completely encloses an entire block. 4th and 5th Avenues are on north and south, Guadalupe on the east, Santa Rita on the west. All along the top of the wall are jagged stones set on edge, a distressingly sadistic touch. The wall dates from 1925, when a man named Smith (from Southern California) caused it to be built by two stone masons who spent 3 years on the project. He planned a major estate on the property, but went no further than a caretaker's cottage, elaborate walks, patios, pools, and a giant BBQ pit before his interests led him to a farm in the lower Carmel Valley and his block was sold. He headed back south, and today there are many small lots and private homes inside the enclosure. A few gateways have been broken through, and here and there a growing pine tree is winning the war of the wall. Start at Guadalupe and 4th where you'll find the main gate, a forbidding iron structure with the initial "S" set in small stones beside it, then walk around this interesting block...you'll enjoy it. You might even hear the hoof beats of the horse who haunts the great wall!
